SEA HELPS BROKER WIN SADIE KELLY

She'll Spell Her Name ∾ ∾ His Way In House Sandwiches Built

A KELLY IS TO BE KELLEY WITH "E'S"
George E. Kelley of Belmont, Boston broker, and Miss Sadie Kelly, wealthy lunchroom owner, who will be married on Nov. 18 and sail for Europe on their honeymoon.

MANSION TO BECOME A "LOVE COTTAGE"
Miss Kelly's beautiful residence in Newton Centre—the house that sandwiches built—is to be their home when they return from a tour of Europe. He's a Harvard graduate.

BRIDAL TRIP IN EUROPE FOR HER

Love, which sometimes is all at sea, came at sea to Sadie Kelly, Boston's "sandwich queen," and George H. Kelley, State street insurance and real estate broker, the couple said today in talking reluctantly of their romance that will reach the peak of marriage nine days hence.

QUICK TO BUSINESS.

The girl, who ran a $200 stake into a half million-dollar fortune, will sail for abroad, she said, over the same route her fiance traveled after his Harvard graduation, on a cattle boat.

It was a mutual interest in yachting that finally brought a complete understanding in love, the couple said as they sat hand clasped in hand, and he now sails a thirty-foot sloop named Sargeo and composed of the first parts of his and his fiancee's names Sadie's christening name is Sarah.

Miss Kelly and George will not let marriage interfere with business.

"I certainly am going to remain in business after my marriage," said the little blonde woman who has fixed up riches via the sandwich route, as she snuggled against her lanky six-foot husband, who was graduated from Harvard in 1921 and from Harvard Business School two years later.

"He's going to stick to his business and I to mine," she added.

GIRL WAS IN WAR.

The marriage will take place in St. Joseph's Church, Greenwich Village, New York, on the afternoon of Friday, November 18, with Rev. Fr. John J. Hickey, friend of the bridegroom, officiating. To make this possible, a special dispensation has been issued by the Boston Archdiocese.

Banns were published for the first time last Sunday in Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, of which Miss Kelly is a member. They will be repeated next Sunday. The couple will sail for Europe from New York on the day following the marriage.

After a week in Paris they will visit Monte Carlo, Rome, Naples and Venice, much of which is familiar ground to Kelley as he spent four months during the World War on the Italian front with the United States Ambulance Unit.

During the honeymoon they will go across the channel from Paris to London. In the latter city they will visit Perley Breed, former Boston orchestra leader, a brother-in-law of E. Kelley. Mr. Breed's orchestra is playing at the Mayfair Hotel, London. They may also visit Ireland.

Joseph J. Kelley, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man and Miss Frances H. Goodwin, a sister of the bride, will be bridesmaid.

Kelley lives at No. 29 Pequossette rd, Belmont, is 29 years old and served for 12 months overseas with the Ambulance Service. He served in the Meuse-Argonne and St. Mihiel offensive and as a result of his service in Italy was awarded the Italian medal.

He is associate editor of the monthly USAAC bulletin. He went through Harvard University in 2½ years after being graduated in 1918 from Rindge Tech, Cambridge. He served on the Rindge crew and also the Harvard 1921 class crew.

8 ADRIFT FOR 3 WEEKS IN GALE ARE SAVED

After a helpless battle of three weeks against the elements, eight men and their Nova Scotia fishing schooner, Sadie McLean, today are safe from a wind-lashed sea and tied up at the Maritime coaling wharf, East Boston.

The two-master, victim of a broken rudder plate, was towed to port by the Bay State steam trawler Ocean. Captain Briand, after the lookout on the Ocean had sighted the signal of distress 90 miles southeast by east of Highland Light, Monday.

Her rudder plate was carried away in the blow three weeks ago. Lacking extra spars or any planking, the vessel drifted helplessly, while the crew watched diminishing rations, with no signs of relief.

Frantic calls to a Norwegian steamship that passed within a hundred yards of the vessel, but failed to rouse the stricken craft, marked the only incident in the three horrible weeks.

When Captain Briand took her in tow, the crew were guarding a small quantity of water and six potatoes, almost the last of the rations.

The Ocean turned the schooner over to a coast guard patrol boat at the entrance of the harbor. Later she was hailed by the customs boat Dreamer and search was made for contraband. When no trace of illicit cargo was found, she was taken in tow by the patrol boat and berthed at East Boston.

Winifredian Docks After Stormy Trip

Forcing her way through easterly and westerly gales for the last two days of her trip from Liverpool, the Leyland liner Winifredian docked at East Boston today with fifty passengers and a large cargo for Boston.

No damage was suffered by the ship though the seas dashed over her forward deck most of the storm period.

William Cookson, eleven, of West Newton, was among the passengers returning, having made the trip over and back unaccompanied. He was met at the pier by his mother.

Among the other passengers aboard were Miss Elizabeth Otis of Providence, student of art and history. Miss Otney returned after seven years in England. Housing conditions and prospects of employment in England forced a decision to return, she said.

The youngest voyager aboard proved to be six-months-old Raymond Scott of Providence. The infant made the trip across two months ago with his mother, Mrs. Scott, spending two months with friends and relatives in England.

Today's trip is the last the Winifredian will make to this port until next Spring, being transferred to the New York-Antwerp run of the Red Star Line, replacing a Winter cruise steamship.

"Lindy" Is Kidnaned! And 2 Little Folk Grieve for Pet

Lorraine and Philip Hoyt of No. 91 Wrentham street, Dorchester, are disconsolate.

"Lindy," their pal and playmate closer to their hearts than anything or anybody save their parents, has been stolen.

"Lindy" is an Eskimo Spitz dog, with all a dog's love for his little charges. Somewhere "Lindy" is tied up, mourning his heart out for his tiny playmates, who beg "Daddy" to do something.

Despite the fact he is a policeman, their father, Traffic Officer Irving H. Hoyt, is helpless, for the law cannot deal with snatch thieves until it catches them. A week ago the children took "Lindy" out on a leash. Gamboling playfully, the dog snapped the leash and bounded away before the children could reach their pet. An automobile was stopped, the dog was called into the machine and the car drove away, carrying "Lindy" out of their lives.

TWO SLAY OLD WOMAN TO WIN OPERA FAME

St. Louis, Nov. 9 (A.P.)—Dreams of grand opera cheers were shattered for Leonard Cota and Howard Kramer today as they faced counts of having slain Cota's aged grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth McKitrick, who was strangled to death and robbed at her Zwingle, Ia., home November 1.

Stains of rouge, which first attracted attention of detectives to them, were still on their lips and cheeks as they awoke today with mascylled hair awry and remembered that Mrs. McKitrick was dead. They did not know until a late hour last night that she had died, and when detectives told them of it, broke down and cried.

Thinking that "makeup" was necessary for an operatic career, the two youths had visited beauty parlors and secured "mascyle," had their eyebrows pencilled and their lips and cheeks heavily coated with rouge. It was this makeup which first attracted the attention of detectives as they left a hotel late yesterday.

Cota, eighteen, a native of Altoona, Wis. told police that Kramer and he had robbed Mrs. McKitrick of approximately $23,000 in cash and a large amount of securities which he said they intended to use in training themselves for careers in grand opera. He said they intended to return the securities.

In his confession to detectives, Cota said that he and Kramer had borrowed $40 with which they made a payment of $25 on an automobile and drove to Zwingle to get the money which he knew his grandmother kept in the house because of her fears of banks.

They told her that it was "Leonard and Oliver" in order to gain admittance. Oliver is a younger brother of Leonard.

The grandmother was suspicious, he said, but he allayed her fears by recalling familiar incidents. He blew out the lamp under pretext of lighting a cigarette and seized the old woman, threw her to the floor, stuffed a handkerchief into her mouth and tied a towel over her mouth and nose.

N. E. PRESS ASSOCIATION TO STAGE FLOOD BENEFIT

A benefit all-star performance for the aid of flood victims will be conducted at the Colonial Theatre on December 2 by the New England Press Association, which obtained use of the theatre through the courtesy of A. L. Erlanger, owner, and manager Tom Lothian. Applications for tickets may be made to the association at No. 100 Boylston street, and donations for aiding flood victims may also be made to that address. Walter D. Allen, publisher of the Brookline Chronicle and president of the association, has appointed Frank E. Langley, publisher of the Barre Times, and Arthur Morrison, publisher of the Littleton Courier, regional directors of relief activities.

Dennis O'Neil, Nashua, Dead

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 9 (A.P.)—Dennis O'Neil, 68, many years proprietor of the Ibaton Hotel, former councilman and active in fraternal circles, died today.

A Great Love Serial by an Expert on Affairs of the Heart in These Modern Days

What Has Happened

Ann and Georgie Hastings, sisters, live together at Mrs. O'Leary's Dorchester boarding house. Ann, the elder, works in a South Boston factory, and Georgie in a Milk street insurance office. Ann is proud of her sister's good looks and charming manners. She thinks it would be a good thing if Georgie married Bill Warren, who has no money, but who is madly in love with Georgie. Bill shows Ann the engagement ring he has bought for Georgie. A strange young man drives Georgie home in a smart car, and Ann hears her plannig to meet him the next day. She pleads with her sister not to make chance acquaintances, and speaks enthusiastically about Bill Warren. The same evening Georgie refuses Bill's offer of marriage. Ann is furious when she hears about it.

Georgie resents being bossed, and Ann wonders how she can best safeguard her sister. Ann goes to a paraty with Jimmy McCormick, a department head in the factory, and incurs a jealous girl's enmity.

She gets a shock when she looks across the dance floor.

She sees her sister with Ernest Brooks, the young man she had promised not to see. She meets him and begs him not to continue seeing Georgie, but he only laughs at her.

CHAPTER 9

ERNEST BROOKS danced well, too, not as well as Rob Jerome perhaps, but in an easy, graceful way. And as he danced, his eyes with their ironic smile, never left Ann's face. He knew well enough she had wanted to speak to him alone, but he was giving her no help.

She said at last with a bluntness that astonished her:

"Do you mind if I ask you some questions?"

"Go as far as you like."

"Well, are you—are you in love with my sister?"

His eyebrows went up. He looked contemptuous and amused.

"Of course. I must be."

"I mean," Ann went on doggedly, with a sickening feeling that she was getting nowhere and only making a fool of herself. "I mean are you . . . anxious to marry her?"

"Marry her? Aren't you rushing things a bit? Besides, what has marrying her got to do with being in love with her?"

"Because that's what I mean by being in love, really in love, with her."

His lip curled a little. "Possibly your sister has different ideas."

It was hard to talk, to think clearly, to fence with this man, against the music, the swaying figures the carefree crowd on the floor.

"Don't let's dance the rest of this," Ann said. "I—I want to get things quite clear."

They stood close to the wall. Was Georgie anything? Probably. And watching with suspicion and anger Ann's talk with this man, wondering what she was saying.

What she was saying was this:

"You see, Georgie and I are absolutely alone in the world. Ann is an older than she is, and I've always looked after her, taken care of her. She doesn't know anything and she's reckless and foolish and worst of all, sure of herself. I—I

HOW AND WHAT IN MANNERS AT TABLE

The array of silver, laid in formidable rows, on many dinner tables is all wrong, and Mrs. Marie L. Fenn, authority on table appointments and correct social usage has come to the rescue of the harassed and worried diners who either don't know whether to pick out a spoon or a m ine.

Speaking to women in the Jordan Marsh Co. assembly hall in the first of four talks on "The Charm of Hospitality," Mrs. Fenn, presented through the courtesy of manufacturers of S.P. Rogers Bros. silverplate, gave these as rules if you would have nice table service:

DO

Be formal at meals excepting supper.

Use lace cloths for the supper table, place the plate an inch from the table edge and arrange table silver on a line with the plate.

Place spoon always on plate an less first course is served before guests sit down.

In using napkin, unfold to half its size and always touch to lips before drinking from glass.

Dry fingers after finger bowls inconspicuously beneath table edge.

Always use candles, unshaded, for the supper table.

Allot a pair of salts and peppers to every two persons.

Use goblets for drinking glasses.

Bread and butter plates are set at left of service plates, with butter spreader on plate at top edge.

Taste bouillon with spoon, but drink direct from cup.

Cut food, then lay down knife, change fork to right hand and eat from fork with thumb up.

At supper place everything but the dessert on table.

DON'TS

Don't use silence cloth beneath lace cloth.

One should never use tall candles in tall candlesticks.

Never use artificial flowers in the dining room.

Never use cut-glass tumblers.

Stacking coffee cups is taboo.

Never sip tea from a spoon.

DAY SISTERS IN FAVOR WITH METRO

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Nov. 8.—Both Dayis and Sister are pretty well in Metro-Goldwyn Mayer. Time was when Marceline was not in such favor but now that her troubles have all been ironed out, they are not averse to signing. Alice Day, her sister. Alice, for many months was Mack Sennett's leading comedienne. Then she tried free-lancing, with the result that she has been engaged to play opposite Billy Haines.

I can only call Billy Haines' next a polo story. It's now the fad t make pictures without titles. Hobart Bosworth has been signed to play Miss Day's father.

The polo story was written by Byron Morgan.

The craze for tales of the under world has gripped Hollywood as no other subject in years. Paramount Famous-Lasky is duplicating it's own success of "Underworld" by arranging a sequel to be started as soon as Oliver H. P. Garrett, import ed here from New York to write it, sets his story finished. Evelyn Brent, who played "Feathers" in version No. 1, will, of course play herself in version No. 2, and, naturally, there just couldn't be another "Feathers" would without George Bancroft and Clive Brook.

With Gloria Swanson putting the finishing touches on "Sadie Thompson," and D. W. Griffith titling his next opera, the backyard at United Artists is a busy place. I stumbled across Gloria, Walter Morosco, D. W. Griffith, John Considine, Jr., O. Lovee, Henry King, G. Gardner Sullivan and several others of the high powered U. A. talent holding a conference in the shadow of the bungalows. Gloria had just given her approval to Sam Taylor as director for "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney."

A story that Charlie Chaplin probably intended should never be printed has come over the wire from New York and shows a side to the character of the man that few people understand. Charlie read of Mary Pickford and Jenth and his poverty and he was especially touched because he and the famous clown had played together years ago. He telephoned his attorney, Nathan Burkan, in New York, to defray all funeral expenses and to see that Mary Pickford had a decent burial. It was Arthur Brisbane's touching refer ence to the poor clown lying on a pauper's slab that gave Charlie the idea.

Fox's underworld picture bears this catching title, "Dressed to Kill." Winfield Sheehan "ain't noggin no nothing," but he is sure there won't be another underworld story with such a box office monicker. Further than that Winnie isn't saying anything. I suspect Peter Milne, Larry Lucas, who has been promised this type of story since he made "What Price Glory," will be allowed to prove out his idea of how the crook hero in such a play would act.

Not many months ago New York was all agog and all atwitter over one William Piggels Duncan, who was sent to Blackwell's Island and put in jail for writing "The Virgin Man." From that you can guess that it was a stiff. Mr. Duncan is now in Hollywood writing novels. He has been signed by E. F. H. O. as a writer

Trotsky who recently commanded the armies of Russia, under Lenin, and kept the various European armies out of Russia, is now in disgrace with his Communist friends.

He entered his carriage in the procession celebrating the tenth anniversary of Bolshevism, but was turned out of the parade and hissed.

They think he is too much of a bourgeoise, too much interested in Russia's commercial property.

Trotsky only smiled, and perhaps thought of what Disraeli said when they howled him down in the House of Commons: "The time will come when you will hear me."

The private detectives hired by a defendant in the Paul Sinclair oil case are unable to prove their statement that they were trying to protect our sacred jury system when they trailed members of the jury, looked up their financial condition and found out when the mortgages were coming due. They wanted to make sure that wicked Uncle Sam would not bribe the jurors to send good Mr. Fall or kind Mr. Sinclair to jail unjustly.

Will the government take this charge supinely?

Russian Communists sent their fund to tell the poor Chinamen how to "throw off their chains," and now the ungrateful Chinese help an anti-Bolshevik attack on the Russian consulate. The Chinese are an old, strange people, and you cannot be quite sure how they will "react" to propaganda or anything else. They will no more change to Communism after forty centuries of Confucianism than rabbits would change from lettuce to raw beef.

DIAPEPSIN KEEPS APPETITE YOUNG

If you have to force yourself to eat, and invariably get indigestion, sluggish headaches, and you are losing weight, excessive acidity is ruining your stomach.

This excess acid sours your food, turns it to sour bile and foul gases, and you are constantly nervous and upset.

Thousands of people credit their good health and young appetite to Pape's Diapepsin. It dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach so you can eat anything you want. That's why 5 million packages are sold every year. Chew one or two of the tablets after meals, and you will never have indigestion, or be bloated.

All drug stores have Pape's Diapepsin.

JOINS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FOR LIFE

The first life member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce was listed on the membership rolls today when Vice-President Carl P. Dennett submitted his application at the so-called "White House" breakfast, beginning the Chamber's membership campaign.

Vice-President E. C. Johnson presided at the breakfast in the main dining room, at which more than 100 were present, and messages of endorsement were read from Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Allen and Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols.

Mr. Dennett, the chief speaker, declared that any business man or professional man in Metropolitan Boston should be ashamed not to be a member of the Chamber, from selfish reasons if for no others. He pointed out that the savings to the community by the Transportation Bureau alone since 1919 have amounted to a 2,800 per cent. dividend on the fines paid into the Chamber since its organization in 1909.

Charles P. Howard, commissioner of administration and finance, outlined the work done by the Chamber in representing the business men of Boston before the Legislature.

Caldwell Unfortunate Yale in Plight Chance for Reformers

That New Arena Huge Overhead Only $3,525 a Day

By NICK FLATLEY

CALDWELL IS WORLD'S UNLUCKIEST YOUNGSTER

YALE, going into the Princeton battle minus Bruce Caldwell, is in some such case as the New York Yankees would be going into a world series without Babe Ruth. The flaming Bruce was the vital spark of a great Yale football team. His individual brilliance provided enthusiasm and spirit for the superb line and the remarkable ends and everything else.

He was the fair haired boy of the team. When he took the ball the rest of the gang knew that he was going somewhere.

Nick Flatley

Naturally, they tried to help with a little added vim and ferocity. With Bruce absent, some of the Yale spirit will depart; will have to. And even a great Blue team will need all its spirit to beat the gang that Will Roper is bringing along to the Bowl.

Young Mister Caldwell is just about the unhappiest and unluckiest kid in the universe today. Boys pay scant attentions to rules. Officials should.

The ethical side of the matter is likely to cause quite some discussion. There hasn't been a thing for the reformers to yowl about this Fall. It began to look as if they might not have a chance. But here's one now, all cut and dried; the stage set for a furious verbal upheaval.

The deplorers have been silent, perforce, but the gags are off, and we are quite likely to discover, before another week runs out, that the country can never be safe for Democrats or Republicans so long as we have any college sport more violent than checkers.

It is rather difficult for the unbiased observer to understand how a star athlete like Caldwell could have been used when his record might have been investigated so easily. The big colleges have expensive systems, built up to prevent just such troubles.

Some of the boys will be cruel enough to say that Yale was trying to get away with something. The partisan fans will say things more vivid. It is not exactly a nice situation in a college which has been willing, over the past decade, to hold itself up as a shining example of purity in athletics.

It might be a good idea for Yale to replay all the games in which Caldwell took part. This might be done in the next couple of weeks, for Eli has half a dozen teams good enough. In that way the Georgia defeat might be wiped off the books. And several remarkable gates would help in part to wipe off the present blot on the Bulldog escutcheon.

A LOT OF POSSIBLE VICTIMS ARE REJOICING BECAUSE THERE WAS NO DELAY IN NAMING THE SUCCESSOR TO THE PHILADELPHIA NATIONAL MANAGERSHIP.

Rules are made to be broken—but not the eligibility ones.

PEEK AT THESE FIGURES AND ADMIRE RICKARD

CAN a $5,000,000 arena, as proposed by Tex Rickard for the North Station, be made a paying proposition? Undoubtedly, since Tex is in on it, but it looks like a huge undertaking. The overhead for such a layout will be tremendous. Here is how the country's leading expert in the matter figures the annual expenses of such a building:

Interest at 6 per cent.	$300,000.00
Taxes	150,000.00
Insurance—Fire, Liability, Damage	40,000.00
Light	25,000.00
Fuel	25,000.00
Payroll	80,000.00
Water	10,000.00
Advertising	25,000.00
Music	25,000.00
Telephone Service	5,000.00
Ice Supplies	5,000.00
Police Service	15,000.00
Total Overhead	$705,000.00

Some overhead—$700,000 per annum. And it doesn't include a cent for attractions, nor guarantees.

Figures show that the Boston Arena operated 173 days in the past year. Mechanics Building was used 167 times in the same period. Boston has never been fertile soil for indoor attractions in the three Summer months, late June, July, August and early September. There are 52 Sundays that are out.

Giving the new arena 300 working days, which is generous, for there will still be competition from Mechanics and the present Arena, the income must be $2,325 per day, just to pay expenses. $2,325 x 300 = $705,000 overhead. Will take plenty of attraction to bring in that much for what might be called the incidentals.

The Boston Arena can be hired for approximately $1,000 per day; Mechanics for a couple of hundred dollars less. A jump from those figures to $3,500 will make independent promoters dizzy. And Mister Rickard and Company will have to step to break even. But you know Tex.

Coast Woman's Club Socks Fight Game

Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 9.—The Woman's City club of Long Beach, with a membership of more than 2,000, went on record against the legal continuance of prizefighting in California.

Exhibition or fight films was denounced as "detrimental to public welfare and particularly bad in its effect upon the youth of the nation, who are led into making 'heroes' of prizefighters."

Los Angeles—Rud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., defeated Johnny Farr, Cleveland (10). Dishman, Wash., Young Stribling, Georgia, won from Aggie Sayles, Washington, (6).

BELLONI TO RIDE IN SIX-DAY BIKE RACE

New York, Nov. 9.—Gastano Belloni of Italy, one of the outstanding foreign six-day riders, has signed his contract to compete in the New York six-day bicycle race in the new Madison Square Garden from December 3 to 10. Belloni is a big favorite with the Italian fans.

Belloni is one of the most consistent riders in the game. A few years ago he won the New York six-day race with Alf Goulet as his partner and since that time has been up among the leaders in every race. He is not a flashy rider but one of the best pluggers in the game. He never seems to tire.

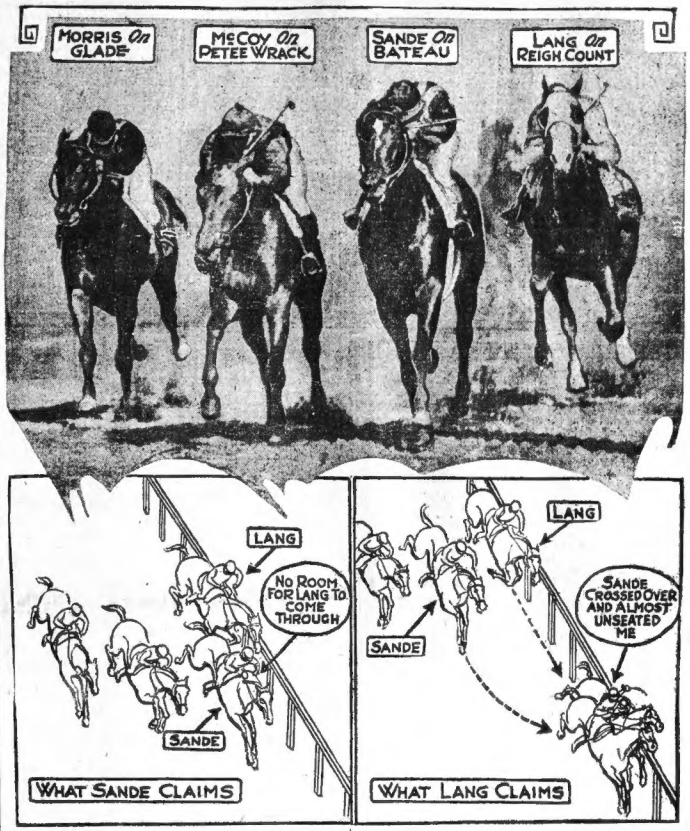
SANDE? ← Who Was to Blame → LANG?



THIS IS WHAT SANDE SAYS

BATEAU broke well, and I went to the front with her immediately. I had a good snug hold of her head and she was running freely when we hit the far turn. McCoy on Petee Wrack was on the outside, but I had no idea of the position of the other horses in the field.

As I had Bateau out a little way from the rail to get the best going, but there was no room for a horse to come through, and I had no thought of anybody trying it. All at once Lang tried to jam his way through with Reigh Count. The fault was all his, and it was only just that this mount should suffer the consequences.

You understand that it is the pacemaker's privilege to pick out his own going so long as he steers a straight course. McCoy, Morris and the other jockeys close enough to see what took place bear me out in my contention that there was not room for Lang to come through on the rail and that the fault was his.

THIS IS WHAT LANG SAYS

REIGH COUNT, the public favorite, was much the best horse in the Pimlico Futurity, and it is a shame that he was beaten. I had him away in motion, but before we reached the first turn Sande, on Bateau, had taken the lead.

I had an armful of horse, however, and knew that I could go to the pacemaker when ready. Rounding the far turn I saw an opening along the rail. Figuring to save ground, I sent Reigh Count up.

We could have got through without trouble, but Sande either pulled over on top of me or his horse swerved. At any rate, Bateau bumped Reigh Count and nearly knocked him to his knees. He recovered his stride quickly, however, and I still tried to fight my way through the now too narrow opening between Sande's mount and the rail.

But he bumped me again, and this time knocked us completely out of the race.

Paulino Signs to Box Nov. 25

New York, Nov. 9.—Paulino Uzcudun will fight someone at Madison Square Garden on the night of Nov. 25. This much has been decided.

Promoter Richard said that either Jack Delaney or Jimmy Risko will be named as his opponent. The winner will be matched with the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Tom Heeney bout for a January date.

Another match in the making is a Leo Lomski-Jimmy Slattery contest. The winner has been promised a chance at Tommy Loughran. No date was mentioned.

ONLY ONE CORNELL TEAM ABLE TO REACH HANOVER

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 9.—Cornell University has cancelled the soccer game with Dartmouth on Friday afternoon, and the cross-country race, on the following day, due to the difficulty in reaching this town caused by the recent flood.

The Ithaca football team will make the trip, however, using various methods of travel. The squad of forty-two Red-and-White players will come from Ithaca to Greenfield by train and then finish the journey in special buses.

HOPPE TO PLAY IN 3-CUSHION LEAGUE

New York, Nov. 9.—Willie Hoppe has entered the American Three-Cushion Billiard League, the first time in his long career that he has engaged in any title competition other than balkline. It was announced officially yesterday by the league directors that Hoppe had signed to represent the Strand Academy in league play this season. The schedule calls for twenty-eight games for each of the eight franchise holders. Charles S. Kline, who holds the Strand franchise, would not disclose the terms, but it was said that Hoppe will receive the largest salary ever given to play in three-cushion billiards.

In Mexico City, with pay day 24 hours away, a squad of Mexican soldiers marched into the park and marched out with the officer promoting the games. The rattle of the firing squad had scarcely died away when the barnstormers were hoeing for the border.

TUFTS WRESTLING TEAM BOOKS EIGHT MEETS

F. J. Flynn, manager of the Tufts varsity wrestling team, has announced the 1928 schedule. The team is captained by Irving G. Gancelon of Severna Park, Md., New England Intercollegiate champion in the 125 pound class.

The schedule follows:

Jan. 7—Harvard at Cambridge.
Jan. 20—M. I. T. at Tufts.
Feb. 3—Pending.
Feb. 6—C. C. & M. at Lancaster.
Feb. 10—Brooklyn at Tufts.
Feb. 14—Williams at Williamstown.
Feb. 24—Springfield at Tufts.
Mar. 2—Brown at Tufts.

Charlie Donovan Trounces Joseino

Charlie Donovan of Dorchester was awarded the ten-round decision over Connie Joseino of Lynn in a welterweight bout in the Casino A. C. feature at Lynn.

Jake Zeramby of Lynn scored his fifth straight knockout since joining the ranks of the pros by stopping Joe Wallace of Portsmouth N. H., in the second round of the semi final.

Harry Saunders of Revere knocked out Joe Baker of Chelsea in the first round and Eddie Hodges of Lynn stopped Carlo Russo of Revere in three rounds.

PROVIDENCE ELEVEN WITHDRAWS COMPLAINT

Bill Cunningham, president of the American Soccer League, announced that the Providence club has withdrawn its proceedings to enjoin the league from enforcing a suspension on William Stevenson, goals of the Providence team.

Williams Off Mass. Aggie List

Amherst, Nov. 9.—The Massachusetts Aggie varsity football schedule for 1928, consisting of eight games, has been announced. The Aggies will play the same opponents they are facing the present season with the exception of Williams, which has found it impossible to meet the M. A. C. team at Amherst.

The schedule:

September 29, Bowdoin at Brunswick.
October 6, Bates at M. A. C.; 13, Middlebury at M. A. C.; 20, Norwich at Northfield; 27, Worcester Tech at M. A. C.
November 3, Amherst at M. A. C.; 10, Springfield at Springfield; 17, Tufts at Medford.

TUNNEY PLANS THREE FIGHTS FOR 1928

Chicago that I would defend my title in Chicago in 1928 if I received a satisfactory offer. The offer I have received from a Chicago promoter is quite satisfactory.

I have also received an excellent offer from a promoter to fight in Philadelphia and one from a New York business man who has made an excellent proposition and who will get a license to promote a title bout.

I have also a fine offer to fight on the Pacific Coast. I plan to fight three times in 1928 and to engage in two additional bouts before 1930, when I shall retire.

Rickard Says Tunney Has Fight Contract With Him

New York, Nov. 9 (I.N.S.).—"It's the bunk."

This was Tex Rickard's valuation of Gene Tunney's announcement that he plans to box in defense of his title three times next Summer.

The promoter evidently was somewhat exercised by the champion's statement, for he fairly shouted his side of the story, which was that his contract with Tunney gave him exclusive right to Gene's services until October 1, 1928.

"I can't understand what Tunney is talking about," Rickard added. "The contract clearly states that Tunney must defend his title for me in the next championship fight and that I have any time until October 1, 1928, to name the date."

A portion of the contract, which insists that Rickard must exercise his option on Tunney's services by written notice before February 1 next, is as follows:

"Provided the club shall have performed its obligation hereunder, Tunney to grant the club an option on his personal services as heavyweight champin of the world for the boxing contest in which Tunney shall engage next following the championship heavyweight contest of 1927. Such contest shall be held before October 1, 1928, in any city or state of the U. S. A. which the club may designate as herein after provided.

"Said option may be exercised by the club by delivering to Tunney written notice of its election to exercise said option on or before February 1, 1928.

"In the event such notice is given, the club agrees to deposit with the New York Trust Company $100,000 before February 1, 1928, and on or before June 1, 1928, an additional $100,000."

The contract was signed by Tunney and the promoter in New York on August 1, 1927.

ELI STAR'S RECORD WAS OPEN

However, Being a 'Big Three' Matter, It Probably Was Merely Overlooked

By BILL GRIMES.

Will it be a case of "The king can do no wrong" or will Yale be severely criticized for playing Bruce Caldwell? Of course, the king can do no wrong, will be the verdict.

Coming as it did from an outside source, the Caldwell expose places Yale in a bad light. Had the announcement of Caldwell's playing for the 1927 Brown freshman team come out of New Haven, the Yale authorities might have been able to clip it under cover. But as the story broke in Providence Yale must stand up and take it on the chin.

The question is, how much will Yale take?

Any time a college outside the so-called "Big Three" is caught trying to put over a fast one said college is whacked from all sides. In the past, if it was discovered that a small college was playing a transfer of some repute, immediately that college was charged with playing "ringers."

On the other hand, when transfers were played by "Big Three" teams, little mention was made of the fact. A small college star who shifted alliances to Harvard, Yale or Princeton was immediately a Harvard, Yale or Princeton man and only the most guarded references were made to his previous experience on the gridiron or diamond.

SAY IT WITH WHISKERS.

A few years ago a nasty scandal was narrowly averted in the "Big Three" which, if it had been made public, would have placed that organization in the same predicament as Yale is in at present.

Yale was out to get the Harvard captain, who was a shortstop and a pitcher, and just about the entire Crimson baseball team. Yale, Harvard and Princeton entered into an agreement to clean up the baseball situations in their respective colleges.

After an investigation, Yale and Harvard declared that they were satisfied that none of their players had violated any of the amateur rules, but Princeton had a general house cleaning and put the ban on some of the greatest athletes that ever wore the black and orange.

Yale knew where the Harvard stars had played that Summer. But also knew that Harvard had the "goods" on some of her players. Therefore, fearing a comeback from Cambridge, Yale allowed like the best bodies so as to drop the matter. Displaying its usual gameness, Princeton took its medicine without a peep and a scandal missed fire.

One of the very first proceedings at all large colleges and universities is the cataloguing of athletes. The history of every football candidate is in the hands of the assistant managers and available to the athletic authorities and the coaches within two weeks after the start of the season. The prep schools of the

HORWEEN WILL REST CROSBY

Crack Halfback Will Not Face Brown Saturday; Guarnaccia to Fill Berth

For this first time this year Harvard's main offensive threat, Jamaica Plain Joe Crosby, will witness a Crimson game from the sidelines. When Coach Tuss McLaughry brings his Brown eleven to the Stadium next Saturday, the invaders will have one pre-game consolation, this being the advance notice that Crosby will be rested for the Yale game.

The former Boston Latin schoolboy is well deserving of a by day. Throughout this current season with the Crimson unsmotherably winning, Crosby has been the main works of the Crimson. His play has been consistent and his little frame of 160 pounds has been subject to a rather abnormal beating.

Crosby never complained. Every game found a new bruise but the Boston lad seemed to thrive on these hurts. Penn knew, hand that Crosby was the powder of the Crimson attack. Hence there was little easiness when Crosby was given the ball.

When he hit the line he was handled like a package in the hands of expressmen. He took the ramming in good humor, but that ly was forced to the sidelines with a bad ankle.

Horeen believes he has sufficient reserve strength to smooth over the hole left by Crosby. Joe will be on the week ready for action if the Brown bear becomes too vicious, he vows.

GUARNACCIA TAKES BERTH.

Dave Guarnaccia, who is playing real hard football again has been selected to fill at Crosby's berth. The Wakefield Italian has shown considerable running ability in the last two games to warrant the cap abilities of carrying on the work of Crosby.

Harvard seems to be starting all over this week. The team has been taken from its mental high glitch by a rather training-less week end in New York. The boys broke training in gala fashion and the high mental strain of the season seems to have worn off. Scrimmages are in full blast and Horween has the team starting anew.

The pinnacle of this rejuvenation climb will culminate at the Yale game a week from Saturday. Brown is to be regarded as merely a further step in the advancement of the team. Harvard feels confident of licking the Providence aggregation and is not spending very much time in perfecting its attack for the Brunonians.

BROWN IS SORE.

Down at Providence there is an entirely different attitude. Brown athletic officials have athletic directors down to the last substitute are sore at the sudden dropping of their team from the Crimson schedule next year. The Providence crowd claim that Harvard dropped them without due notice.

The Bruin players seem to have forgotten their fraternity war long enough to take this Crimson game into deep consideration. They are out to vindicate this break in manners on the part of Harvard out on that Allston football field next Saturday.

NOVICES BATTLE IN ST. JOE'S TOURNEY

Novices will hold the spotlight in the weekly amateur boxing tournament of the St. Joseph T. A. & B. to be held at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin square, on Saturday night.

Two divisions for newcomers have been arranged including 112 and 118 pounds, and it is expected that quite a delegation of ambitious youngsters will make their appearance. It is the hope of the club to develop some promising boys for the annual fixtures to come later in the season.

In addition to the novice classes, the followers of the simon pure will witness bouts in five open classes including 126, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight

'THE ASSASSIN' TO BOX FOR ARGONNE

K. O. Phil Kaplan, New York middleweight, who was to have met Pete Latzo here tomorrow night, has a split eye and will not be able to fight for four or five weeks. For this reason Eddie Mack has called off the show.

For next week Mack has secured the most sensational fighter that has come out of the West since the days of Stanley Ketchell for his next show here, which will be held at Mechanics Building, Friday evening, November 18.

Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen Assassin, conqueror of Tiger Flowers, Maxie Rosenbloom, Yale Okun and every middleweight of prominence in the West, has been clinched to appear before Eddie Mack.

Lomski will clash with Homer Robertson, middleweight champion of New England, who has been cleaning up all opponents recently, and the match looms up as one of the fistic gems of the season.

Bill Grimes, featherweight champion of Australia, who only recently held Honeyboy Finnegan to a four-line decision in New York, will make his bow here against Terry Parker.

Scholastic Chatter

By JOE CASHMAN

CAMBRIDGE High and Latin School is already at work on its 1928 football schedule. There are still four open dates on the list, September 29, October 27, November 10 and November 17. Any team that would like to take on Coach Leander MacDonald's "Cantabs" on any of these dates should communicate with Faculty Manager Garrett D. Foley at the school.

The Suburban League game between Newton and Cambridge, originally scheduled for Saturday, will be played at Russell Field, North Cambridge, on Friday. It seems that school games attract bigger crowds in Cambridge on Friday than on the last day of the week.

Coach Bill Broderick, who has been ill for several days, is back again with the "Witches." The boys will probably hear something about the game they dropped to Peabody last Saturday while the mentor was confined to the bed in his home at North Adams.

Another Everett school committee meeting has come and passed and still there is no break in athletic relations between Everett and Malden High despite the fact that they will not meet on the gridiron Saturday, as originally scheduled. School followers everywhere hope that the row between these two famous rivals ended with the conclusion of this season's grid game.

* * *

It will be a long while before Mechanic Arts gets through celebrating its victory over English High. The fact that it was the first Artsman win over the Blue and Blue in 15 years and was entirely unexpected, makes it all the sweeter. Coach Dutch Holland and his charges are deserving of a lot of praise.

* * *

English High's defeat adds to the attractiveness of today's clash between Latin and Dorchester at Braves Field. Latin, if it wins, will hold a commanding lead; if it loses, the race will become a four-team affair.

Coach Steve White, popular mentor of the South Boston eleven, is confined to his home with illness.

Brighton High will swing back into action against East Boston in a District League game at Fenway Park tomorrow afternoon. It's about time those Brighton backfield aces, Joe Ryder and Captain Tom Pallais, got started. They among the best ball-carriers in the city ranks, but they never seem able to cross the final chalk mark in competition.

Inside Golf

By Chester Horton

A golf ball, perched up nicely on a tee or propped up temptingly on the stubby ends of the clipped grass of the fairway certainly has nothing on the diligence or ferocity in its appearance. It doesn't appear to possess any capacity to "fight back" in surprising ways. The instant the descending club head comes in contact with it it fights back, and the harder it is hit the harder it fights back. Every golfer has observed the tendency for the grip to let loose from the shaft before the stroke is finished. That is, he finds himself holding the shiny loosely. Fingers opened; the shaft merely dangling in his touch. The force of the ball against the clubhead when you hit it caused the grip to open.

Ticket Holders Sue Commission

Los Angeles, Nov. 9.—Seeking a refund for the money they paid to see the Joe Dundee-Ace Hudkins welterweight championship fight which failed to materialize, a group of ticket holders today asked to enter suit against the State Athletic Commission and Dick Donald, promoter.

Attorney Vernon Hamilton said that the complaint would recite that ticket holders are entitled to full information and would object to any attempts to have the proceeds of Dick Donald's "fistic folly" turned over to charity.

While Donald's name is included in the defendants, the State Athletic Commission is the main offender, Hamilton said.

TERRIERS NEED SURER DEFENSE AGAINST PASS

Coaches Ed Robinson and Reggie Brown will devote today's practice at Riverside Grounds, teaching the Boston University backs the proper way to stop aerial attacks.

Despite the sturdy scrimmage line defense Boston University has shown this year the secondaries have been weak in breaking up forward passes.

St. John's College of Brooklyn, the next team on Boston University's list, has one of the best aerial and forward passing offenses of any team on the Back Bay College schedule.

As a result this department of the game will have to be strengthened again before Saturday. The coaches have divided their backfield into set "A" and set "B."

The starting backs will have three veterans and one freshman. Jarvis O'Brien will be at quarterback, Herbert and Halliday at halfbacks, and Wallis at fullback.

This backfield has two ball carriers in Herbert and Wallis and four good defensive backs.

The other backfield will consist of Nelson at quarterback, Thurman and Irving Weiner at halfbacks, and Sam Weiner at fullback.

EXETER MEETS ANDOVER IN 46TH CLASH

Exeter, N. H., Nov. 8—Exeter and Andover are hard at work this week preparing for their 46th football game, which will be played here Saturday.

Dolph Cheek, former Harvard and Exeter captain, is working with Coaches Henry Blake and William Miller of the local team in polishing up the Exonians.

Andover has the lightest eleven in history, while Exeter has an unusually fast and heavy line, with fair backs. This fact makes Exeter the favorite. Exeter is captained by Francis J. Gilligan of Newtonville. Other Greater Boston boys in the Exeter lineup are, Murdock Finlayson of Cambridge, tackle; Henry Myerson of Brookline, guard, and Joseph Perlstaff of Auburndale, end.

Andover's captain is William Gould of Southington, Ct., and one of the star backs, a triple threat is Theodore "Ted" Avery of Three Forks, Mont.

Exeter has won games from St. Anselm's Prep and Holy Cross Freshmen, and lost to Harvard Freshmen, Hale freshmen and Worcester Academy, while Andover has victories over Lawrence High and University of New Hampshire freshmen, and has lost to Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth freshmen.

Exeter and Andover first played football in 1878. Andover has won 21 games and Exeter 20. Four games ended in ties.

In this span of 49 years Exeter has never led in the series, although three times the New Hampshire school has tied it up.

From 1905 to 1913 Andover made a run of eight straight wins and then Exeter came back with six victories in a row these being the longest runs either school has ever made.

The Exeter-Andover is the longest series of any two rival schools in the country, and is only surpassed by the Harvard-Yale and the Yale-Princeton series.

Pro Boxing Fine Field for Boys, Says Tunney

By GENE TUNNEY,
World's Heavyweight Champion.

"If you had a son would you have him become a prize-fighter?"

That is the question a father writes me from Boston. He also calls my attention to Christy Mathewson's negative reply, when, a few years before the death of "Bix Six," he was asked if he would have his son follow baseball.

But my answer is different. If a son had all the physical qualifications, talent and a bent for a boxing career, I would say—"Yes."

But I would first point out to him the many sacrifices to be made; the years of constant application; the diligent industry to be employed and the severe physical hardships to be endured.

These are the elements of professional boxing I would have him consider before he became launched on a professional career. And of these hardships, the physical ordeal is not to be taken lightly.

Some men can undergo mental vicissitudes such as grief, worry, financial reverses, family upsets, etc., and come through on an even keel.

Yet these same men when called upon to endure hardships of a physical nature, may not be able to stand up under the strain.

However, if "this son" finally decided to select a boxing career after being made acquainted with all phases of the fight game, he would find nothing about the ring itself or the atmosphere and environment surrounding the sport that could in any way influence him for anything other than good.

From professional boxing as in any other career, a man builds his own character. Every one who attains success is directly responsible for that result.

It is through his own efforts and by his own sacrifices that he reaches the top. Unfavorable influences or cumstances and conditions usually find a poor subject in a successful man, because that man is strong.

His character—the stuff of which he is made—carries him through any rough sailing just as it does a banker, a lawyer, a physician or a political office holder.

It is often alleged that boxing attracts a "low grade" type of person. This erroneous belief is probably due to the fact that professional boxers are in the public eye and their private lives constantly in the spotlight.

As a consequence, one "bad type" is pictured to represent the all. It is to be admitted that there are some "bad characters" in the boxing game, the same as in any other occupation.

FOR years law as a profession has been under fire, the popular cry being that a "low grade" type is drawn into it. Yet the profession as a whole is not to be condemned.

It is the same in boxing. For the low "low-grade" undesirables that are held up to the young as examples of prizefighters, a score of better type can be supplied.

One need only to name a few whose reputations were spotless and whose intelligence and character were admirable: Jeffries, Corbett, Fredy Welsh and Benny Leonard.

Therefore, if I had a son with the proper foundation, necessary qualifications and an unwavering desire to adopt boxing as his profession, I would commend him to that career.

Professional boxing today is a clean game and a good sport. If a young man enters it, he shall find the same fair field of competition that he would in law, medicine, engineering or any type of business or industry.

PARENTS OF ELI STAR SILENT

Refuse to Discuss Status of Famous Yale Halfback When Queried

Providence, R. I., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Neither James Y. Caldwell nor his wife, parents of Bruce Caldwell, disqualified Yale football star, would discuss the affair this noon when they left the Ashton mill of the Lonsdale Company, where they have been employe as weavers for years.

Neighbors of the Caldwell home, however, said that Bruce was expected there from New Haven this afternoon.

The Evening Bulletin today says: "Bruce Caldwell's playing with the Brown freshman team in 1923, news of while aroused the Yale Athletic Association yesterday to declare Caldwell ineligible four days before the Princeton-Yale game, had been frequently reported in Rhode Island and New England newspapers both at the time that he played with the Brown freshman team and since his meteoric success at Yale has brought him into the limelight.

"When Caldwell was to play against Brown in 1923, a newspaper report spoke of the showing he was expected to make against his former teammates." When Caldwell's Brown record was telegraphed by the Associated Press to New Haven yesterday, the Yale Athletic Association revealed that it had never known of Caldwell's football career as a Brown freshman and that Caldwell had never known of the Yale Athletic Association rule which makes him ineligible because of that record."

Brown Students Didn't Let Out Caldwell Secret

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Any foundation for inferences that the story of Bruce Caldwell's football activities at Brown University in relation to Yale's eligibility rules originated in Brown circles or was given to the Providence Bulletin by a disgruntled fraternity group at Brown was denied today by Alfred H. Gurney, Brown alumni secretary, in a telephone conversation with the New Haven Register.

Mr Gurney said Brown men in general knew the Yale star, who was banned from Eli football yesterday, played at the Providence institution in 1923, and that his picture in football togs appeared in a college publication that year. They considered it a matter for Yale to consider and thus never have made a public announcement.

Caldwell did not participate in baseball at Brown, evidently expecting to play ball at Yale if he was successful in entering there, Mr. Gurney said.

"Further investigation at Providence," said the Register, "showed that the story of his participation in freshman football while at Brown in 1923 did not originate in the sports department of the Providence Bulletin.

It was the Providence paper which first published the information on which Yale authorities were prompted to act.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"I HAVE just got the low down on Tony Canzoneri, world's featherweight champion, who will blaze away at Red Chapman at a Suffolk A. A. show at the New Boston Arena on next Monday night," said Mr. Boston today. "He is a protege of Pete Herman, former world's bantamweight champion, and one of the greatest mitt men of all time.

"When Herman first saw Canzoneri he was pushing a peanut roaster for his father, Peter Canzoneri. The youngster confided to Pete that he aspired to become a boxer. Herman put him into the amateurs and after Tony made good he decided to send him to New York to Sam Goldman, former manager of Herman.

"It wasn't long before Goldman had Canzoneri in the big money. He established a national reputation by his two sensational battles with Hurl Taylor at Chicago.

"Canzoneri then went gunning for the world's featherweight championship. Johnny Dundee, conqueror of Eugene Criqui, had never been beaten at the class weight of 126 pounds. A title skirmish was arranged and dropped in at the Garden. The youthful Canzoneri handed Dundee a decisive defeat.

"AS champion, Canzoneri intends to tackle all comers. He must be handed considerable credit for agreeing to meet a bird like Red Chapman. I have always rated Red as one of the greatest featherweights of recent years. The fans hold a similar opinion of Chapman's value. A year ago the Boston Evening American called upon the ring worms to pick the world's featherweight champion. Chapman was their choice.

"If it had not been for the cruel hand of fate, Chapman would long ago have won recognition as the title holder. Chapman was twice matched with Kid Kaplan at the time when the latter headed the featherweight group. On both occasions, Kaplan withdrew from the contest at the last minute.

"When Red and Honeyboy Finnegan were signed to battle in New York last Summer, it looked as though the Chelsea citizen was going to get the recognition his work in the ring entitled him to. Once more the bubble burst. Finnegan announcing at the eleventh hour that he couldn't make 126 pounds.

"STILL Chapman paraded forward. He signed to swap blows with Benny Bass in Philadelphia in a bout which was advertised as for the world's featherweight championship. Chapman had knocked Bass out in a round in New York only to have the Philadelphian declared a winner on a foul.

"The wise boys said Red was daffy to fight Bass in Philadelphia, as Benny had never had a decision rendered against him in his home town. Chapman knew the odds were against him, but he has believed in taking chances. He fought Bass down to the final bell. It was probably only natural that home town judges gave the verdict to the home town boy.

"Red refused to lose heart. He started on the trail of Canzoneri the minute the latter defeated Dundee. He finally interested Tom Good win of the Suffolk Club in promoting the contest in Boston.

"Goodwin, it is said, guaranteed Canzoneri 10 grand, while he agreed to pay Chapman off with $6,500. Maybe Tom figures that this will be sufficient proof to Tex Rickard that he will have a real fight on his hands if he comes to Boston.

"Goodwin must put $20,000 into the Arena next Monday before he makes a dime. He believes, though, that this show will draw more than $35,000.

"Goodwin, like Rickard, believes Boston is big enough for a big fight. With the world's featherweight champion against the leading contender Goodwin has given the old town the big fight. He says the big crowd will turn out as a matter of course."

BOWSER BILLS FOUR BOUTS FOR THURSDAY

Tomorrow night, at the Grand Opera House, Paul Bowser will stage four bouts, the winners of which he believes should show enough class to enter into an elimination tournament that will eventually provide a challenger for the heavyweight crown, the match to be staged here in Boston.

Abe Kaplan should be able to either impress the fans with his match with Tony Felice or else Felice will impress them as having a chance to beat some of the best heavies in the game.

George McLeod comes here with a good reputation. If he is able to dispose of Albright and Ludlow within a half-hour, he will be given a chance with the winner of the Kaplan-Felice bout the following week.

Stan Stasiak is booked for a tour of the West and South, and just wants to polish off Jovanni Varcarini be ore he goes. He believes that 30 minutes is plenty long enough to accomplish the trick, and with big Stan in shape, it looks like a busy evening for the Italian. Ned McClure will give the acid test to Jack Odell in the opening bout.

Robbins New Captain

Chandler Robbins 2d of Boston has been elected captain of the Harvard senior class champion football eleven, which will meet the Yale champions at New Haven on Friday. Chandler's play has been outstanding as center of the undefeated senior team.

School Elevens Offer Aid to Flood Victims

By JOE CASHMAN

Everett High and St. Mary's High of Brookline hope to play games Saturday for the benefit of the New England flood sufferers.

St. Mary's offered to play Everett but Headmaster Wilbur Rockwood of the latter school informed the Brookline authorities that the Gibbies eleven was virtually assured of another opponent.

Eve ett, it is believed, is angling to bring either a Vermont or Pennsylvania eleven here. It would be next to impossible for a team to come from either of these places unless it received traveling expenses, at least, so Everett must intend to pay for the visit with funds from its athletic treasury. It is planned to devote the entire proceeds of the game to charity.

Such action on the part o. Everett would indeed be praiseworthy. An interscholastic game with the Gibbs champs upholding the honor of this section would attract a capacity crowd and a large sum would be realized for the flood victims.

St. Mary's, after failing to get the Everett date, communicated with the High School of Commerce, which has open dates this week due to the cancellation of its game with Fitchburg. The unbeaten school declined to play Saturday, however. Coach "Doc" Fleming thinks it is best to let the team, which is in good shape physically, have a rest.

Coach Kelley of St. Mary's a new school with a smaple eleven is willing to take on any school team either at Brookline or away.

Charges of commercialism in school athletics will certainly be dealt quite a blow if four teams play for charity's sake, Saturday.

Wildcats Want Action

The South Boston Wildcats issue a challenge to any 100-110 pound teams in the State. Open date Sunday. For games write P. Sullivan, No. 8 Ward Court, South Boston.

Coach Stagg on Hospital List

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The Chicago football squad, one of the worst sufferers from gridiron casualties in the Western conference this fall, has a very important patient on its hospital list today. Amos Alonzo Stagg, the sixty four-year-old coach, who is suffering from a severe cold contracted the day Michigan defeated his team 16-9 last Saturday. Stagg bullied himself out of bed to direct practice last night, but went back at once with paper and pencil to devise some new strategy for the hereditary foe of the Maroons, Coach Zuppke's University of Illinois eleven.

The rest of the Chicago cripples are rounding into shape, giving the Maroons the advantage of nearly full strength for the first time since the early season contests.

CUBS' SPRING TRAINING MOVED FORWARD WEEK

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cub's Spring training schedule was moved forward another week today when Manager Joe McCarthy sent out word to his pitchers and catchers to be ready to leave for Catalina Island on Febru. y 15.

CALDWELL'S RECORD OPEN

athletes, their experiences and successes are all on file.

Therefore, Yale cannot possibly take the stand that they were not aware that Bruce Caldwell had been a student at Brown before he matriculated at New Haven. Caldwell had starred at Cumberland High School before he entered Brown. This fact could have been, and, in all probality, was known to Yale. But how come, Yale did not find out that Caldwell had played freshman football at Brown?

The loss of Bruce Caldwell will be a blow to Yale's chances against Princeton next Saturday but because Yale is Yale, the Elis will suffer little after effects for trying to get away with an infringement on the transfer rule, existing between Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

But, let some small college come along and get caught trying to break even one of the minor rules and see the avalanche of criticisms heaped upon it.

There are many advantages in being a king.

Babe Peat Lou In Batting on Tour

New York, Nov. 9 (I.N.S.).—Ruth batted .418 and Gehrig .316 on their barnstorming tour of twenty eight nine States just concluded, according to their statistics today.

The famous Yankee nair estimate they had appeared before 220,000 persons in New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Ohio, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado and California.

In three California cities schools were closed during their performance, so great was the attraction of these slugging stars. Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, drew the greatest crowd during the tour, when 30,000 stormed the gates.

POST $25,000 TO INSURE DUNDEE PURSE FOR BOUT

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Despite announced opposition by the city prosecutor, negotiations were continued today to rematch Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, and Ace Hudkins of Nebraska whose scheduled title bout last Thursday was called "no contest" when Dundee failed to show up.

R. D. Knickerbocker, attorney for Promoter Jack Doyle, said a certified check for $25,000 had been posted by business interests to guarantee Dundee's full purse. Knickerbocker said the money was posted on condition that the prosecutor withdraws his objection, and a majority of the State Athletic Commission approves the match.

There also were reports of secret plans in some quarters to hold the bout out of the city limits.

Tempting Bacon Dishes

By MARTHA LEE

IF there is anything better calculated to coax a sleepy family from its warm beds on a chill morning than the tang of frizzling bacon I have yet to discover it. Crisply browning, delicate bits of that not-too-lean, yet not-too-fat kind of bacon or pink and luscious slices of well-smoked ham frying in their own juices do send forth tempting aromas.

I am sure there is nothing in the whole realm of cookery that appeals to a man's early morning appetite more than a platter of jam or bacon and eggs. But the bacon must be crisp and well browned, not limp and greasy, and the eggs must be delicately browned on the edges with clear white albumen and unbroken yolks.

To fry bacon correctly, have it sliced as thin as possible. Use the good, old-fashioned iron skillet, and put the bacon in while the pan is cold and cook until crisp and brown, turning frequently and occasionally pouring off fat from pan. Remove bacon to platter and return fat to pan. Let the fat become almost smoking hot, then slip the eggs one at a time into the hot fat, and cook until the white is firm, basting frequently. Remove and serve on a platter hot with the bacon.

To make sure that the yolks do not break while putting them in the fat, break each egg separately into a cup or small dish, from which each can be more easily slipped into the hot fat. Do not turn eggs, but baste them with the hot fat, using a large spoon.

An unusual way of serving bacon is creamed and served on toast.

Take half a pound of bacon, cut in thin slices, 1 cup of evaporated milk mixed with one cup of water or two cups of ordinary milk. Cover the bacon with the liquid and let stand about twenty to twenty-five minutes. Then remove from the milk and roll in flour. Melt a small quantity of bacon drippings in a skillet, add the bacon and fry until crisp and brown. Place on a hot platter. Pour off half the bacon drippings and make a gravy, adding the milk previously poured off the bacon. Pour the hot gravy over the bacon and serve immediately on hot toast.

An excellent way to serve ham for breakfast is sliced and fried. Take 1½ pounds of ham about three-quarters of an inch thick and slash the fat on the edge in several places. Put in a hot pan and sear quickly. Turn and brown on other side. Lower heat and cook until done, about 15 or 20 minutes. Serve on hot platter with eggs fried as for bacon and eggs.

Or it may be minced and served on toast. Take two cups of minced cooked ham, ¼ cup of chopped green peppers, 2 slices of toast, 1 cups thin cream sauce, ½ teaspoon salt and pepper, mixed. Mix the ingredients, heat thoroughly and serve on half slices of toast. To make the thin sauce, melt two tablespoons butter in saucepan, mix 2 heaping tablespoons flour with ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ saltspoon pepper, add to the melted butter, smoothing out lumps, then stir in slowly 1 pint of milk. If made in double boiler, the sauce will not lump or become too thick.

Here are a few breakfast combinations that may prove interesting for cool weather:

Sliced bananas
Dry cereal Milk or cream
Baked sausage
Muffins Coffee

Stewed prunes
Cooked cereal Cream
Bacon and eggs
Buttered toast Coffee

Orange juice
Minced ham on toast
Muffins Coffee

Sliced oranges
Ham hash and poached eggs
Waffles Honey Coffee

Baked apple
Broiled ham and eggs
Doughnuts Coffee

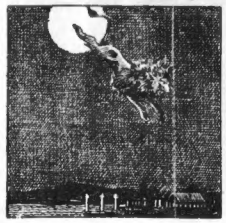
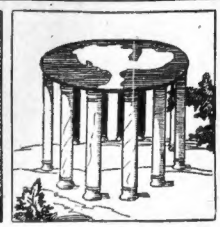
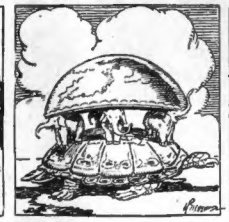
The Story of the Stars (Fantastic Ideas About the Earth) By Garrett P. Serviss



Nothing astonished the ancients more than meteors shooting fantastically across the sky. One which fell in Greece was imagined to be a lion leaping from the moon. This meteor passed into tradition as the "Nemean Lion."



The ancients thought the earth was flat and circular. To hold it up Vedic priests imagined a system of pillars as shown in the above drawing. The safety of the pillars was guaranteed if the faithful contributed regularly.



The Hindoos said the earth was shaped like a hemisphere. They thought that elephants held up the hemisphere, while a turtle held up the elephants. Their imagination did not go beyond the turtle, which was supposed to look out for itself.

(Copyright, 1927, King Features Synd. Inc.)

Here is an Egyptian idea of the Universe. The earth was a reclining goddess covered with leaves; the heaven was a star-spangled goddess bending over. The sun and moon navigated through the stars in boats.

Fashion Fads

"At Night All Cats are Gray" is an old proverb, but it is equally true that in the daytime, in Paris, most coats are black. Black cloth coats trimmed in flat black fur, are extremely smart. Caracul and seal trimming is favored, being used in numerous striking ways, such as deep shoulder capes or rippling front flares.

Joining the Navy and seeing the world, seems to translate itself into seeing the world of sports fashions, as nautical insignia are the chosen motifs for decorating sports costumes. A tiny star and chevron on the sleeve, or a large star and anchor on the side or front of the blouse of a wool frock is smart.

CHAPTER 49.

"Your mind is running to Becky that's all. In heaven's name don't be so fantastic, man. Why this wom an . . . Estabrook's voice expired. Mimi Janisoff was singing again . . . singing some fits stan thing, full of fire, bitter gaiety, and the throbbing portentous repetition of drum beats. It was the last song on her program. "Immediately popular anyway," he resumed, with a feeling of complete detachment, he realized that the singer was receiving an ovation.

The diva kissed her hand graciously to some invisible, but sophisticated admirer in the balcony—then spread out her hands.

Again the house was hushed although many people remained standing as softly but with wonderful distinctness the clear words quivered on the air.

"I know where I'm going, I know who's going with me.

Estabrook felt himself suffocating. He breathed heavily, but no air seemed to come into his lungs. He pushed Adelard brutally back, and forced his way t, the narrow aisle, unconscious of singers and annoyed glances, of hissing vowels. He strode up between the tiny drop seats which impeded the exits, knowing only that he must have air, grace, that he must get away.

But at the very door he stopped. held by some power beyond his own. For there on the still stage between the crimson draperies with flowers at her feet and diamonds at her wrists, Becky McCloskey was singing:

"Feathered fools are fine . . .
Painting rooms are bonny;
But I'd leave them all
To go with my love Johnny."

And standing in the tone of her singing brought the prick of tears to John Estabrook's eyelids.

She had hardly concluded when Estabrook felt his arm clutched from behind, and, turning, faced Adelard Brigaard whose usually beard fairly twitched with triumph.

"What did I tell ou?" Brigaard shouted. "Is she not truly more than human, a cristable angel? Where is Adelard? I have searched for you two a pleasure which is beyond words extraordinary."

Estabrook mumbled something inarticulate, and the critic, placing one hand on the American's shoulder, murmured, "I know, I know. With all your reserve of th Anglo-Saxon you are stirred t the very depths. You have been tonight in Heaven, hein?"

Estabrook assented bitterly, with a nod. So this was Mimi Janisoff, Mimi the great. This was Seaflet's wife, whom he must tell of Seaflet's doubts! Oh no . . . no! Seaflet's words, "My Mimi . . . never touched my tips," rang in his ears Estabrook was glad as Adelard, pushing his way toward them, diverted the current of Briguard's enthusiasm.

"Rejoice my f ends. Heaven is to come. L Arlaide Briguard, have succeeded. Tonight—this very night —you are to be admitted to her salon.

"Is-s-sapprendit, Briguard, old thing, you're a wonder. You should have been a d-diplomat."

"I am a diplomat, mon cher, Briguard tossed stiffly, muffling his grin n his beard. "But you, Monsieur, are very silent." He turned to Estabrook. "Is it that you are overcome by this honor of honors? Have you no single word of joy for Briguard, modest Briguard who engineered your admission to the sanctum sanctorum of the idol of Paris"

Estabrook expressed his thanks joy he could scarcely simulate as convincingly as possible. But he protested that the air voyage from London and the excitement of the performance had wearied him inexpressibly. Adelard should act for both of them. He, Estabrook, was in no fit condition to be presented to the high priestess of music, nor could he conceivably face such an ordeal.

"But the man is mad with a mad ness!" exploded Briguard. "He does not realize the honor! Such an opportunity comes but once if at all. Alas, that I should come to one with a head of wood. Moreover my friend would you aim a direct insult at Madame Janikoff who expects you, and who bade me upon my honor to bring you to her home without fail?"

"She knows who I am?" Estabrook interrupted. "You mean you —you mentioned my name?"

"But of course, Monsieur, of course. Madame invites no nameless scarecrows to her home."

Estabrook's head swam. Adelard leaned close to the ear of his friend.

"Take it like a m-m-m-man," he muttered. "Make the best of it! You'll have to go.

"Certainly. Come along, we had better be starting, Monsieur."

"The duty could not be more enchanting, certainly," Estabrook said with an odd, despairing gallantry. And he followed Briguard and Beris to the waiting limousine.

And so after a time, these two men entered—John Carroll Estabrook of The Evening Chronicle, and Becky McCloskey of Boston.

'Lovelorn'; Georgie Discovers Rob Kissing Ann at the Dance

have to look out for her as if she were my child, not my sister.

"Don't you see? I'm telling you the truth as simply as I can. I'm bleeding with you really. If you love her things to drink, it's a bit criminal. I don't want to be rude, but I do know that your friendship for Georgie can do nothing but harm."

She had finished, and Ernest Brooks puckered his mouth in a silent whistle. He did not seem to relish her simplicity and honesty, however. There was a little ugly sneer on his face.

"Just what do you think you're going to do about it?" he asked.

"You mean you won't even listen to me?"

"Of course, I won't listen to you! You're about a million years behind the times. Good Lord, this isn't the Way-Down-East era. What right have you to try to butt in, anyway? I wouldn't be surprised if you were behind because your sister's better looking than you are!"

Then Ann grew pale. He had snatched her weakness with a frankness of his own, and he had been brutal. She knew now she feared this man, and she felt unable to say another word.

She turned and made her way to where Ernest Brooks just behind her, plainly the victor. She had no desire even to look at him, no where she could be alone. She must think things out with a clear head somehow. Brooks had all but told her of his intention, and Georgie was sweet enough and helpless enough to follow her own headstrong way to unhappiness.

Though Rob Jerome was laughing, Georgie's eyes, big with intensity, explored Ann's face as she approached. But they fell before Ann's smouldering stare, and even Rob seemed to realize something had happened.

The dance had not yet ended Brooks smiled at Georgie, and as it to break the tension, she rose and swirled away in his arms.

"Take me home. I want to go home." Ann pleaded to Rob.

"What's the matter?" Rob asked.

"That way didn't say anything to you, did he? I'd like to had that one just for luck, he certainly hates himself, he does!"

"No, nothing's happened. Only I'm tired. You don't mind do you some other night . . ."

He followed her, disappointed but unresisting, to the main entrance. But once they were in the dark hall, he caught her arm.

"Look here," he said. "I'm sorry if anything's happened. Sure, I am!" Then he put his arms clumsily around her and tried to draw her close to him.

"Oh, please don't!"

"What's the matter? A kiss isn't going to hurt you, is it?"

And before she could stop him he had kissed her. As he released her, Ann glanced ashamed up the corridor. At the entrance of the hall, just where it turned, Georgie was standing. Evidently she had come out to say something to Ann.

She had seen Rob's kiss. Now with a shrug, she turned on her heel and went back. A shadowy figure joined her. They disappeared together into the ballroom.

Then Ann laughed, but with bitterness. To be caught like that somehow spoiled the point of anything she herself might say. It would make her argument as weak as that of the reformer who says it is right for him to indulge himself as he wishes, and all wrong for others.

Going home in the taxi, she was silent so that Rob Jerome's facile sympathy turned to sullenness at the door of Mrs. Leary's as he gave a curt good night, and did not attempt to kiss her again.

Except for the dim light in the lower hallway, the boarding-house was dark. Ann climbed wearily to her own room. She felt miserably sad and lonely. She wished with a wish that was like pain that her mother were living and that she could go to her with her weakness and her responsibilities.

Her first fury had burned out. Now she only wanted to bring Georgie to her senses, to make her see the danger she was running in making friends with men like Ernest Brooks. He had practically admitted that he was unscrupulous. He was clever and knew women. He was crafty and he was attractive.

If ever Georgie should fall under the spell of his fascination—and that he was fascinating, Ann could not deny—there was no telling what might happen to her.

With her love of pleasure, her recklessness, her ability to be swept away utterly by a single mood she was in danger. Ann sat in the dingy room, in the lonely mess and the silence trying to think what to do.

No use advising Georgie. Fiercely she might defy any such attitude. And as for pleading with her, that seem so hopeless. She had promised fervently enough and in all sincerity, but her promise had not lasted three days.

Still—there was only one thing to return, worrying to no avail. Ann reflected once more that for Georgie time was really only one possible course.

She must marry Bill Warren. With this hopelessness in youth, he would have so much to offer. And he would be firm with her, too. Ann sensed that strength of will in him.

She thought of him now with a little wave of tenderness. How could Georgie be so blind as to be swept up by the various Ernest Brooks of the world with their cheapness, their empty bitterness.

Ann Bill Warren pop?

She must marry Bill Warren, she must, she must! The words went on in Ann's head like a refrain. Suddenly she heard the door below snap open. She got up. But it was only one of the other boarders who had been out late. It was almost an hour before the door was opened once more. And this time she knew the step on the stairs was Georgie's!

Advice to the Lovelorn

A Poor Gamble

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you please give me your opinion regarding matrimonial clubs? Have not successful marriages resulted from them? What do you think of them? FRED M.

WINNING a wife through a matrimonial club or agency is usually a gamble in which the cards are stacked against you.

The woman you choose as your wife, should be one whom you know well as a friend, a dearly loved friend. You need to study her and her background.

If a matrimonial club could be conducted along ideal lines, with perfect references and under gov ernment auspices, it might succeed in bringing congenial companions young men and women together with a view to marriage. But I do not know of any such agency. Your chances of meeting the right life partner in the average matrimonial agency is about one in one thousand.

Fill Your Life!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I was married in June. My husband is nineteen. I am seventeen.

Before our marriage my husband would not go anywhere unless we could take me, and I would not go out without him. Now he won't go anywhere with me. He takes me to the theatre once a week and expects me to stay home the rest of the week.

Every night he goes out alone. When I married I dropped all my friends, but he does not care more than he ever did before. He tells me I should not go out alone because I'm married.

We are staying with his mother. She hates me, with no about this matter, but it doesn't do any good to reason with him—he only laughs and does help me.

HEARTBROKEN

IT seems rather sad to marry so young, my dear. But now that you are married, you face a situation not a theory.

Why in the world did you give up all your friends when you married? Can't you resume the companionship of nice girls and young married couples you know? Invite them in now and then to dance or play bridge, even though your husband is away. When interesting things are going on at home he may be more inclined to stay there.

If I were you, I would also join a study class attending once or twice each week with some girl you know. A dancing or French class, or a class in cooking or swimming might prove interesting.

Fill your life with bright interests. Keep yourself and home bright and attractive. Do not reproach your husband, but try to win him back by being the most interesting, charming, lovable, young woman he knows. All success to you, my dear!

Joining the Navy and seeing the world seems to translate itself into seeing the world of sports fashions, for nautical insignia seem to be the chosen motifs for trimming sports costumes. A chevron and ting star on the sleeve, or a large anchor and star on the blouse of a wool jersey frock always look pronounced the naval influence is becoming in current fashions.

Correct Manners

By MRS CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

For a wedding to take place in church at 5:30 o'clock, what is the proper attire, including hats and shoes, for the best man, groomsmen, bride's father and the mother?

5. When there is to be a flower girl, where does she walk in the processional and recessional?

3. Should the best man walk with the bridesmaid going out of the church? ANXIOUS.

FORMAL afternoon attire—cutaway coat and dark striped trousers, patent leather shoes. The most formal tie is the Ascot, of a black and white or a gray and white combination. The four-in-hand, of a black or dark blue or gray background and with a small figure or stripe is also correct. The bow tie, too, is correct with a cutaway and is oftener more becoming with this attire than with any other. The bow tie is often polka-dotted, or may be of a gray combination.

2. In the processional, the flower girl usually walks just before the bride, and after the maid of honor. But she may, if the bride prefers, walk first in the processional, in the recessional, she walks either before the bride and groom, if she is to strew rose petals in their path, or after the bride and groom if usually the latter position is chosen for her.

3. No! Not in the well planned cosmopolitan wedding nowadays. The bride and groom are given the advantage of all the spotlight, and they are the only couple in the processional. If they are followed by another couple, and then by more couples, bridesmaids and ushers together the emphasis is taken from the bride especially in this case when there is only one bridal attendant, for then if the maid of honor walks with the best man, it gives the appearance of a double wedding.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A dispute has arisen among some friends and myself as to where a gentleman should walk with two women.

A says he should walk in the center, and B says he should walk nearest the curb. I think F is right Will you please tell us who is correct? A READER.

YOU and B are correct.

Dr. Reed Tells About the Open Air Schools

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

THE mental activity—and mental capacity—of your child depends upon the amount of oxygen that it takes into its system.

The amount of oxygen within four walls, with a ceiling and a floor, is less than in the open.

It follows, therefore, that the mental activity of your child will be greater in the open than within any room, however well ventilated.

That's the science, natural law, underlying the open-air school. And there is no getting away from the conclusion.

I have repeatedly advocated these schools on the basis of observations made at the Lotspeich Open-Air School at Cincinnati, attended by four of my grandchildren. It is a health-giving school for strictly healthy children. Now I find GN good health a report on the administration of open-air schools by Dr P. A. Sharpe. He is medical officer for the Preston Open-Air School in Lancashire, England. He has 158 pupils boys and girls. Unfortunate ly for the general idea, they are selected on account of anemia, debility tendency to pre-tuberculosis and other non-infectious conditions." It is, therefore, a health-restoring agency and, as such, its medical supervision is an assistant medical school officer.

The doctor visits the school weekly to examine casualties, and goes over every child twice a year. The nurse attends to minor ailments. Every hour in the morning, and her treatment centre is also used by two other elementary schools in the neighborhood. An important part of her duty is to visit the children's homes, to inquire into unexplained absence or to act as liaison officer between the school and the home over matters such as clothing, boots or weekly contributions. She also superintends the combing of the more delicate children.

The bathing arrangements are needle and shower jets, and every child attends once a week. The dressing cubicles or stalls, are specially warmed and there is a drying-room for towels and bathing slips.

A dentist visits the school once a week, but urgent cases are, of course, treated as they occur. A toothbrush and powder are provided for each child, and a tooth-hygiene drill is held every day after the afternoon break.

Children get a good breakfast, dinner and lunch (3 p. m.) at the school.

The annual cost of educating a child at this school is $55. At an ordinary elementary school it is $60, and in a special open-air school it is $120.

Exercises for the Neck and Shoulders

By Maria Jeritza, Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

IF YOUR neck and shoulders are as lovely as they should and can be, their graceful, slenderly-rounded contour lends distinction to every costume you wear. For, even under mean concealing draperies, a line of beauty is suggested by shoulders gently sloping from a fine, white neck to symmetrical arms.

Have you the habit of rounding your shoulders over your work? If so, the chances are you have them that at all times, which give the impression of awkwardly-thick, rounded shoulders.

At this moment, wherever you are, whatever you are doing, straighten your head and neck and throw your shoulders back until you can feel that your back is flat and your neck rises proudly from your shoulders. Is not this correct posture restful? And you may be sure it adds grace and youthfulness to your appearance.

Deep breathing is the ex-rcise par excellence for the symmetry of the throat, neck and shoulders. This one practice, indulged in systematically for fifteen minutes night and morning in the open air, is capable of rounding out the hollows of a scrawny neck, and giving a vital look to skin formerly withered and sallow.

One young girl, who rides to work each day on the bus, always chooses the top, Winter and Summer, so that she can breathe deep of fresh air all the way. As a result, her neck and shoulders are so attractive that they are universally admired wherever she wears a low-cut frock. Strange to say, vigorous deep breathing tends also to reduce a fat neck and shoulders. The daily exercise on your walk affords ample opportunity for deep breathing.

If your neck is sallow, eat more fruit and vegetables, and forego celery, teas of sweets and meats. Drink an abundance of water.

Cleanse your neck nights with a cleansing, nourishing cold cream then arrange it with warm soap-suds and rinse it with cool water.

Here is an exercise which if practised regularly each day two or three times. In addition to daily deep breathing, should lend grace and symmetry to your neck and shoulder line:

Stand straight, with your weight over the balls of your feet, your arms extended parallel to each other straight in front of you at shoulder level. Now swing your arms as far as you can to the right, then as far as you can to the right without moving the rest of your body. Keep them at shoulder level.

If you will follow the suggestions in the last few months for several months I am sure you will be delighted with the enhanced loveliness of your shoulders, neck and throat and arms.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters!

Don't—mix a mess of mustard, flour and water. Don't make a sticky, messy plaster. Don't spread it on a piece of linen, apply it to the sore spot and then—after it's all ready—discover you haven't any pins. Don't—do any of these disagreeable things. Don't—use mustard plasters.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, and takes the place of mustard plasters.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

Are You Thin, Weak, Nervous, Run Down?

To have plenty of firm flesh and strong muscles, "pep" and ambition and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals.

Mrs. Henry Yorkell of 41 Bonham St., Hartford, Conn. says: "Since taking Tanlac I can eat anything and it suits me fine. The sleep is my best friend now and I sleep well. No more dizzy spells or headaches. I get up in the morning feeling fine!"

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs. It is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist and give it a thorough trial. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

When to Suspect Acid Scalp

It isn't age that dulls the hair. Nor frequent washing or curling. If your hair lacks all life and lustre, it may be due to a condition you can correct in twenty-four hours. Acid scalp.

Neutralize the acid secretions of the scalp, and your hair will have the lovely sheen that makes any hair so attractive. A few drops of Danderine will do this; and as its name implies, Danderine is a scientific dandruff dissolvent. Five minutes use of Danderine is applied every particle of dandruff has been dissolved!

Acid scalp should be suspected if your hair is at all stiff or stringy, or won't hold a wave. Another sign—not so easily detected in one's self—is an acrid odor to the hair when it is warm, or after exercise. And for thirty-five cents at any druggists, you can get a bottle of Danderine that will keep your hair soft and sweet and "on its good behavior" for weeks!

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding

With all four suits stopped and better than average high cards, South bids a No Trump in preference to Clubs or to passing. A bid of Clubs might be detrimental to the partnership's best defence if West obtained the declaration. North a opening lead of his own suit in such case would be better than a lead of Clubs dictated by South's bid, since South can support any suit that might be opened. A No Trump bid therefore offers the best defence as well as the best offence with this type of hand. Against West's normal opening, the Queen of Diamonds, South can make ten to eleven tricks at No Trump. East's Heart bid, however, forces South to indicate his Club suit. His bid of three Clubs closes the auction, as West, though holding four Hearts and a singleton Club, holds no high card tricks in any suit and therefore has no Hearts. In fact, but two Hearts can be made on the hand.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. East reads West's opening lead of the two of Hearts as a singleton or fourth best. If a singleton, then South must have held five Hearts to the King and therefore a two-suiter, a hand with which he would hardly have bid a No Trump originally. East, therefore, reading West with four Hearts rather than a singleton, and possibly with the King, returns the Queen of Hearts. South, in the lead with the King of Hearts, counts his hand. He has ten positive tricks in the combined hands and a possible eleventh if the Jack of Spades finesse wins. Declarer plays accordingly.

Trick 4. The Spade finesse losing, South cannot go game except by a squeeze play, which can be affected if West holds the ten and nine of Spade and the Queen and Jack of Diamonds. Declarer therefore plays for squeeze as the only remaining chance for game.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

A WOMAN never realizes just how little "woman's sacred influence" amounts to until she tries to convince a man in a political argument.

* * *

That was a sad day for women when man discovered that he was "the noblest work of God". But it has never discouraged us from trying to pet a few improvements on Heaven's Masterpiece.

* * *

Nowaday's no woman is too young for a job nor too old for a love-affair—and as long as she has these two, she will never petrify.

* * *

A man may be perfectly honest when he tells you that you are the "first and only" woman he ever loved; but don't forget that you are "starting something" which it may take a lot of other girls to finish.

* * *

Do your voting quietly. A woman escapes a lot of arguments and keeps a lot more friends, if she can just manage to look blank and protest that she doesn't "understand politics."

* * *

A man is old, not when his glands and his arteries lose their oep, but when his imagination becomes so feeble that no woman can make him even fancy himself in love.

* * *

A few flashes of silence between her flashes of wit would greatly improve almost any girl's conversation these snappy days.

* * *

The world owes every man a living; but what always shocks and astonishes a college graduate is the bitter discovery that he will have to hustle around and COLLECT it.

* * *

Once the notion that a girl is hopelessly in love with him has become fixed in a man's mind, you might as well try to unscramble an omelet as to attempt to extract it from his consciousness.

* * *

Woman wants but little here below—a little of EVERYTHING!

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply costs about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it, and it is pure and good.

Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly loosens the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and eases your cough stops entirely. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract and pleasable guaiacol, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective results. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

OH, it is hard, the lengthy road whereby man comes to fame,
And weighty is the daily load life adds to earth's acclaim.
However much a man may dream of heights he would attain, he finds at last the glow, the gleam are all too hard to gain.
And few there be who climb alone, but few others who ever rise by efforts that are all their own to loftey destinies.
For love with patience ever climbs about the upward way; and prayers of love, on ardent wings, lift souls above dismay.
The man who wins to fame at last and, wreathed with victory, turns his thoughtful gaze upon the past, one happy truth discerns that not alone he won his crown, but that his every move towards heights of splendor and renown was dreamed, planned, wrought by love.

CARTER''S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

ACCORDING to the Better Business Bureaus, bootlegging is now America's third largest industry. Rum runners are the modern court jesters. They keep the country in good spirits.

PROHIBITION has been a great success. Only ten per cent. of the people in the United States are drinking liquor. The other ninety per cent. are selling it.

WHISKEY used to be man's worst enemy, but most of us have signed an armistice.

WE now love our enemies at six dollars a quart.

WE were kept out of the League of Nations by Wilson's fourteen points.

ONE rum runner is calling his rye "Old Gold." There isn't a headache in a boatload.

VOLSTEAD didn't get his idea for prohibition in a minute. It was aged in the wood.

BUT the 18th Amendment hasn't caused us any inconvenience. We've been able to break it right along with the other laws.

LIQUOR is so plentiful that hundreds of bootleggers have opened export departments.

THEY'RE shipping stuff to dry countries like Canada and Bermuda.

THOUSANDS of speak-easies are now running all night. One woman says she longs for the good old fashioned saloons that used to close at twelve o'clock.

IN those days she at least knew where her husband was.

THE poor fellow is getting round shouldered from bending over in cellars.

HE drinks twice as much today because tomorrow the place may be padlocked.

SHE looks for the first robin while he hunts for the last swallow.

THE nearest bootlegging joint is 200 feet from his house as the Old Crow flies.

HE used to have a Ford, but now he goes around in a supersticks.

HE has a lot of respect for Lindbergh's airplane, but his ambition is to go to Europe on a bat.

PROHIBITION is a blessing to this country. Calisthenics are what builds a sturdy nation, and millions of people are taking their "setting up" exercises with a cocktail shaker.

FRISBY REACHES NEW HEIGHTS OF ORATORY

Mister Frisby's stenographer, who has prepared many of his most masterly speeches, and says they are "very invigorathn".

BY MISTER FRISBY

Congressman-at-Large

WASHINGTON.—"What's a good cure for a cold?" is a question I am often asked by my constituents.

That, my friends, is a question that has been bothering statesmen since the Magna Charta was first drawn through the blood-drenched streets of Paris.

I would deem myself remiss in my duty if, when called by my country to respond, I looked neither to the right nor the left, but closed my eyes to the evils that beset our dear ones in this, our hour of peril, made resplendent by the setting sun whose rays paint the far flung skies in glorious memory of the American eagle.

It is not for me to say when the end will come, but as sure as the raging tide surges back and forth in relentless measure, I will fight for that principle which has always been the guiding hand when men called upon posterity to answer the riddle that has thundered down the corridors of time. On this firm rock I stand.

Adam Scofflaw's Journal

Lays awake all this night, basked by my conscience for having wagered true gold on the football fantrum, whilst my angelifreous partridge wambles in the scullery and woth herself caudge-pawed in a most tingy manner to pinch a penny. But if I do win the wager, I will busk the poor wretch a kiss, which give her more joy than anything in the worlds.

* * *

For the convenience of husbands who are forced to take their wives to football games, the following printed replies to annoying questions are provided. Merely clip out and hand to the little woman—

1. No. We can't change our seats to the other side.
2. That isn't a penalty. They always change position at the end of the first quarter.
3. I didn't intend to speak rudely.
4. Certainly, you have a right to ask questions, dearie.
5. You're mistaken. I didn't have anything to drink. . . I went to buy a program.
6. I am not watching the blonde. I was looking at the man she is with.
7. Certainly, I want to stay until the game is over.
8. The car is safe—it's locked.
9. All right . . . but don't ever ask me to bring you to a football game.

BEWARE the COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Safe Now When Others Come Close!

The Secret of Keeping a Perspiring Body Sweet

Do you know why thousands of people who never have to take a laxative, do eat a candy cascaret now and then?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immediate end of person that means up" exercises with a cocktail shaker. everything. It prevents bodily misery from ever making one uncomfortably offensive to others. And what a perfect remainder of how to feel.

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oil leaves a coating that the blood must carry off—but the Cascara does much better to reinvigorate the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction. You say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that last for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the laxative which every druggists has for 10c and 25c.

"ONE DANCE used to undo all precautions for personal daintiness. All waste in my system seemed to come out through the pores. Today, I don't worry; I keep clean all through, with just occasional use of—

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE ☆ ☆ BOSTON ~~EVENING~~ AMERICAN ☆ ☆ BOSTON NOVEMBER 9, 1927

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Grade Crossings

Make Them Safe or Get Rid of Them

The decision of the United States Supreme Court that the driver of an automobile who goes upon a railroad track at a crossing takes his life in his own hands does not dispose of the question by any means.

The perils are still there. Motorists strange to our New England highways will continue to come upon them in the darkness of the night without warning.

If grade crossings cannot be made safe, or reasonably so, by the erection of gates or the presence of crossing tenders, they will have to be abolished.

Our railroads have been having a hard time of it. The 36-hour rain of last week will cost them millions of dollars, at a time when they scarcely can afford hundreds. They are in no condition to bear any crowding.

It may be that it is up to the States to do the work, but many precious lives have been sacrificed on New England grade crossings this year and the crossings must be made safe or they must go.

The problem would appear to be up to the legislatures.

Progress

From Fields Corner to Park Street in 14 Minutes

How the transit facilities of a considerable part of the Dorchester district have been bettered by the opening of the "tunnel" extension from Andrew Square to Fields Corner may be seen at a glance in what has happened at Savin Hill.

When Savin Hill was a station on the Shawmut branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, it was accommodated by 22 railroad trains daily.

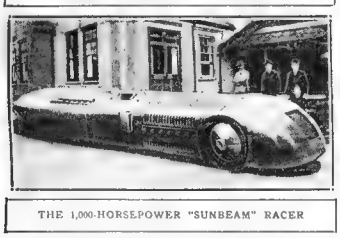
Under the new arrangement the Boston Elevated Railway Company gives Savin Hill 393 trains.

Fields Corner, to reach which only one week ago called for a transfer from train to trolley at Andrew Square, and then a long and bumpy street-car journey, is now only 14 minutes from Park Street.

The thousands of men, women and children who are making use of the new line may be pardoned if they look upon its opening as quite the most progressive and most significant occurrence of Boston's Week of Progress.

How'd You Like This?

Newest 1,000-Horsepower Racing Car



THE 1,000-HORSEPOWER "SUNBEAM" RACER

Many a young man's heart will beat faster as he looks at this car and imagines the fun he could have sitting in there, throwing everything wide open and eating up the road.

The engines of this car, recently completed, concentrate the power of 1,000 horses into speed. The machine, expected to break all records on the level and on hill-climbing, looks like some strange monster out of prehistoric time.

It takes nerve to drive this machine around corners or to open up its full speed. Such an automobile, of course, is not suited to modern conditions. Roads are not flat enough, the law would not allow it to develop its full speed except on a specially prepared track or sandy beach.

But what a thrill you could get from the "jump" of this car as the power was turned on!

The way to get such a car is not merely to LONG for it, but to WORK FOR IT. That is what the men did that built it. That's what Lindbergh did before he got the machine that carried him across the ocean to glory. And everybody, Lindbergh included, will tell you that the greater part of the fun is THE WORKING before you get what you want.

Bears

Good to See Them Again in the News

In these days of modernism, jazz, luxury and installments, a good, old-fashioned bear story in the news does not come amiss. The bear is the most beloved of the wild animals and in the early days his place in the news was prominent. Civilization largely wiped him out as a public entertainer and he went the way of old-fashioned things.

However, just a day or so ago, David Winner, of Corning, N. Y., was eating his lunch on a pile of railroad ties when he was chased up a pole by a bear who had designs on the lunch. He was "treed" for two hours.

Sophisticated though we are, old-time things have a habit of coming back for a brief and refreshing reminder.

Another animal story. Only the other day Senator Norris came out as a candidate for President. But that's a Bull Moose story.

MOST INTERESTING THING IN WORLD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

YOU may not believe it, but the stubborn fact is that the most interesting thing in the world is a fight of some kind.

I mean the crowds recently gathered in Chicago to witness the fight between Tunney and Dempsey and the enormous amount of money involved in that event, millions of dollars, shows that the most primitive form of personal contest still is at the front of all interesting things.

What the contest is about makes no difference. Nothing is to be settled. Nobody cares one way or another over the issues. They just want to see the fight.

Neither Tunney nor Dempsey is anybody in particular except rather prepossessing young men and men in the pink of physical perfection. They have no dispute to settle and no issue is involved.

Somehow the old question as to who is the best man is a perennial one. The school boy illustrates it when he walks up to another fellow and says: "I can lick you."

His licking is about nothing and settles nothing. But the licking business remains interesting.

The marching for humanity to do is to transfer the scene for contest from a fight between men to a fight against the enemies of mankind.

Recently Von Hindenberg denied the fact that Germany was responsible for the war, although most of the civilized people think she was. Mr. Briand stated, very properly, that the question had better be let alone.

Probably the thing responsible for the war is that everybody had a lot of gun powder stored up and a lot of men ready to fight and they wanted to see a scrap for their money.

Fundamentally the thing that brought on the great war was the same thing that brought on the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

Perhaps in time some other thing than the question who is the best man will come to the front, but so far in the world's history that remains the most interesting question.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

QUEER what politics does to women.

Not women of color, so, but most white women. I'm strong for equal rights for women, although I believe that the greatest and most profitable activity in the majority of women's lives should be matrimony. But I see no reason why in Federal politics should be prohibited with other professions and arts barred the most successful mothers I know are those who have a grasp on the working world, and whose personalities have been increased and balanced by that contact.

But when it comes to politics—

Well, maybe it balances and mellows them, but I'm still to be convinced.

Generally speaking, politics seems to work like hasheesh on females.

From being comfortable, good natured, easy going mamas, they develop into howling dervishes.

Blood in their eye and a grip on the shoulder, strident, assertive, domineering or they become too complacent, too duck-deadly, too wise-acking.

If they're given power they're sure to run amuck with it and lose all sense of humor and proportion. If they get in a jam they lose their heads—although the same woman may be able to use the hardest domestic tests with calmness and courage.

And when it comes to cooperating with men, women have a part that's difficult time in politics. They don't like to make compromises, some how or none, that's a woman's way. If they overcome that weakness they may swing to the other extreme and make so many compromises that they have no more resistance left than a jelly fish.

Why is this?

It isn't because they're not as intelligent as men, or as patient and plucky. They are. Women can usually show men cards and spades in those virtues. But they can't seem to assimilate the political game.

It's probably due to their lack of experience. They're not wise yet to all the unwritten laws, codes and compacts by which men have run their political game for so long. They don't know how to shut the other eye—or conceal an extra ace. Particularly they don't know how to consume their own smoke—and profit by the other fellow's.

Doubtless in time they'll learn.

But I wonder if it will be worth while.

FOLLOW THE RULES MADE FOR PLACE YOU WORK IN

By J. J. MUNDY.

DON'T feel so sure of your job that you think you can follow your own set of rules while other employes must abide by the will of the firm for which you work.

Age and experience and a long term does not entitle the holder to laxity in rules which are laid down for the workers in general.

You may be able to attend to your work in a satisfactory manner but your failure to meet requirements cannot be overlooked because of its effect upon the other workers.

The fact that you are an old employe makes it more necessary for you to be strict in your attention to regulations.

Your example is likely to be followed by the others.

You cannot be so firmly entrenched with any firm that it can afford to let you be a rule unto yourself.

You are unwise to entertain such a thought.

Business is more and more competitive, and morale is necessary to success. Employers cannot afford to be sentimental in this matter.

Morale cannot be sacrificed to one or two who consider themselves favorites with the powers that be.

MOUNT TACOMA IS ITS REAL NAME

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest

THE apologizers for American independence, those who, though accepting the honor of being American citizens, speak regretfully of the "unfortunate separation from the mother country," are conspicuous among the opponents of the effort to restore to the great white mountain that grandly presides over the State of Washington its native American Indian name of Mount Tacoma, one of the most beautiful names known in geography.

Its present "official" title, defended by a body in Washington D. C., called the "National Board of Geographic Names," is "Mount Rainier." Rainier being the name of a British naval officer during our revolutionary War, who happened to be a friend of the British explorer Vancouver, who sailed along the western coast of North America in 1798, and seeing the great white peak on inland, bestowed upon it the name of his absent friend—a proceeding which, considering how far North America was at that time from being a newly-discovered land, was a something like an amateur astronomer renaming the mountains on the moon!

Vancouver didn't know and didn't care whether or not the inhabitants had a name for the big mountain that hovered over them like an avatar of the Great Spirit. They were barbarians, so why should he trouble himself to inquire what they called things! Explorers frequently make this mistake of assuming that the aborigines of a country new to them are destitute of imagination.

As a matter of fact, owever, the Indians of the Puget Sound region did have a name for the mighty mountain, and did possess sufficient imagination to make that name interesting even to invading whites when with their age-long duration in mythology.

It is not a flattering chapter in American local history which tells us that the name Tacoma, which had been formed from the original Indian appellation and applied to the mountain instead of Vancouver's unsatisfying substitute was displaced in consequence of the jealousies aroused by "a cheap real estate war" between the two rival new towns Seattle and Tacoma. This is a thing which, after being merely mentioned ought to be dropped as unfit for discussion.

THE vote in New York gave the city power to lease land for houses to be rented at reasonable prices, and also allowed the city to borrow $300,000,000 to build needed subways. This is along the line of human intelligence. The vote was a victory for Governor Smith and Mayor Walker.

In Ohio, on Tuesday, prohibition suffered, voters refusing to let the Anti-Saloon League give justices of the peace fees in prohibition cases to stimulate their energy.

In Detroit, the candidate for Mayor who promised he would save the people from wood alcohol by letting them get good whiskey, was defeated.

Philadelphia, electing Senator Vare's candidates for Mayor and Council by a big majority, indicates that Pennsylvania wants Mr. Vare in the Senate.

James Rolph, Sr., is elected Mayor of San Francisco for the fifth term of four years. Those that have seen San Francisco's parks and other proofs of efficiency are not surprised.

Army to "Teach" Colonel Lindbergh How to Fly

Washington, Nov 10 (I.N.S.)—The War Department today ordered Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Missouri National Guard, on active duty at Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., effective Nov. 9.

Colonel Lindbergh will undergo a period of "practical training," according to the order.

He will be required to return to his home at St. Louis, Dec. 31.

FALL PROBE ARREST

Washington, Nov 10 (A P.)—Sheldon Clark, wealthy Chicago oil man and sportsman, was placed under federal arrest today after his refusal to testify in the Grand Jury investigation of the Fall-Sinclair leasing scandal. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Clark was directed specifically to maintain one of the several code cards offered to influence the verdict of a jury.

The complaint is similar to one previously lodged against Harry F. Sinclair and another of his confidential agents, Henry Mason Day, by Neil Burkinshaw, assistant district attorney in charge of the inquiry.

Like Day, Clark declined to answer questions before the Grand Jury, on advice of counsel. Specifically the grand jurist desired to know if Clark made contact between Burns detectives trailing Senator Walsh and Sir Jay.

His hearing and that of Day will await the action of the Grand Jury which is expected to conclude its investigation next week.

PHOTOS IDENTIFIED IN CLAREMONT CLEWS TO WOMAN'S WANDERINGS

Claremont, N. H., Nov. 10.—In the woods and hills bordering this town today a race is being run between Boreas, god of the north wind, and Cupid, god of love.

Whether Boreas will win and will place his laurels in the hand of death, or whether Cupid, victorious, will live again into the keeping of a grief-stricken minister, the pretty bobhaired wife he has hunted for days—only time, as an umpire, can tell.

Somewhere in the frosted woods, Mrs. Anne Ramsey Forbush, of Canandaigua, N. Y., is believed hiding, fearful that she will be found—but if searchers are fearful that she will not be discovered before it is too late, and be returned to her husband, the Rev. Dascomb Forbush, of Canandaigua.

Three residents of Claremont today positively identified the photograph of Mrs. Forbush as the stylishly attired blonde who made eccentric purchases there as recently as Monday. Dr. Forbush was greatly cheered by the witnesses, two women and a man. On the verge of exhaustion after his three weeks of tireless hunting the youthful preacher and former athletic coach redoubled his efforts to find his wife.

Mrs Forbush was seen at 8 o'clock last night standing outside a local station at Claremont Junction, by Roger Donahue, night telegraph operator.

"I turned out a train order to a crew that just pulled in," said Donahue, "and noticed a refined appearing woman standing on the platform. I noticed an automobile there and supposed she had come in that, but saw it drive off without her. That

1,000 PRIESTS ATTEND PETERSON CEREMONIES

With 1,000 priests present and with the edifice crowded to the doors, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. John B. Peterson, rector of St. Catherine's Church, Somerville, was consecrated auxiliary bishop of Boston today in the Holy Cross Cathedral.

Cardinal O'Connell presided at the elaborate and impressive exercises that tong two hours to cover. Assistant consecrators were the Rt Rev Je George Albert Guertin, bishop of Manchester N H, and the Rt. Rev Dr John Gregory Murray, bishop of Portland, Me.

Also acting as assistants were the following priests:

Rt. Rev. Mgr. M J Splaine, D. D., permanent rector of St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury; Rt. Rev. Mgr Richard J. Haberlin, D. D., secretary to the cardinal, chancellor of the diocese and recently appointed permanent rector of St. Peter's Church, Dorchester.

A notable feature of the occasion was the presentation by Cardinal O'Connell to Bishop Peterson of the pectoral cross and episcopal ring owned by the late Archbishop John J. Williams, who preceded the cardinal as head of the Boston archdiocese.

The new auxiliary Bishop Peterson, the

FRIEDA TO SETTLE WITH HECKSHER FOR $250,000

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—August Heckscher, seventy-nine-year-old financier and philanthropist, has settled for $250,000 a lawsuit involving $1,000,000 brought against him by Frieda Hempel, operatic soprano and thirty-seven years his junior, the New York American says today.

Together with the cash settlement the American asserts, Heckscher offered to apologize for remarks made by his attorneys concerning the singer.

The suit, Miss Hempel declared after it had been filed early in May, was based on visitation of alleged agreement by which Mr. Heckscher would pay her $[illegible] year for the remainder of her [illegible] she accepted no engagements or employment for hire that would [illegible] her absence from New York [illegible] more than two days at a time.

Girls Can Smoke if Men Do--Pussyfoot

Girls have just as much right as men to smoke cigarettes, cigars, pipes or anything they "darn" please, was the somewhat startling statement made today by William E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, reformer and dryest of drys, here to debate the liquor question with Dudley [illegible] Malone.

"Of course they have the right to smoke," he declared. "That's their business and it surely will not intoxicate them. I wouldn't wear myself out preaching to the world that they shouldn't do it if, that [illegible] haven't got that right.

"In the old days a man who smoked was looked upon as a character. That prejudice has been overcome and nowadays no one pays any attention to smoking by them, except in some parts of the West.

authorities that outside aid is needed, national directors of the American Red Cross announced that $72,000 had been appropriated and pooled with $27,000 early contributions to give impetus to relief work. Much more will be needed, and contributions are wanted.

A hike to unreported danger in Montpelier and other places in quantities of gasoline, released from tanks by the flood, and now floating on the surface of unreceding waters. This possible source of fire is being carefully watched.

Snow has clogged many northern Vermont roads and, in the valleys, has melted to add to the mud and slime already making the highways difficult of passage.

A Boston truck en route to the Winooski valley of Vermont with food supplies sank in a cavity on Memorial avenue, West Springfield, today. The driver, W. H. Hinsman and his helper, J. A. Kilbane both of Glendale road, Boston, escaped uninjured.

The truck is owned by the First National Stores, and it was one of three on the way to the flood district of northern Vermont. The other two had passed safely through Memorial avenue.

Another automobile was wrecked in the same way in Union street, West Springfield, the driver climbing out unhurt.

THREATENED BY FIRE

Fire threatened the flood-swept Brightwood section of Springfield when the dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Steimach at No. 27 Talcott avenue was damaged to an estimated extent of $8,000.

Fire department officials believe the fire was caused by a short circuit in an electric pump which was removing water from the cellar. The Steimachs returned to their home two days ago after having fled, with 1,000 other Brightwood residents on Saturday.

In a plane carrying 400 pounds of mail for Montpelier and Burlington, Vt., Robert B. Fogg, civilian aviator, hopped off from the Concord, N. H., airport today. His flight marks the opening of regular air mail service to northern Vermont. Daily trips will be made.

With the Red Cross rushing relief measures on the scenes of the worst damage and loss of life, the "Salvation Army, arrived in the stricken area with their message of cheer, led by Miss Myrtle Turkington, who was with the Yankee Division overseas during the war.

WIRE TO COOLIDGE

President Coolidge received a telegram from Governor Weeks of Vermont praising the aid given by the Red Cross and the United States army. The closing sentence was: "Our loss has been so great that we shall need all the assistance the government and Red Cross can give."

But this the President, according to dispatches from Washington, interpreted as an appreciation of what the government is already doing and not as a request for further aid.

A donation of $5,000 for relief in Vermont was voted by directors of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company today.

The Boston & Maine Railroad announced the reopening of service to White River Junction. Motor coach service will be in operation between Newport, N. H., and White River Junction until the rail line can be opened to that point.

Motorists driving to the Dartmouth-Cornell football game at Hanover on Saturday are notified by the New Hampshire highway department that precaution must be taken that three routes are open—Cashua, Manchester, Concord, Littleton or Cashua to Hanover, Concord and Newport to Hanover and Keene to Newport and Hanover.

Five airplanes left the Boston airport today for Burlington, Vt., with mail, food, blankets and other supplies, and Major-General Preston Brown went on one of the planes.

FACING FAMINE

A report of conditions in Mad River valley, Vermont, made by Captain Young of Northfield to Colonel Campbell, disclosed conditions there. The town of Moretown was reported as having no yeast, flour, cornmeal baking soda, cream of tartar, salt or sugar, except what might be in the hands of individual families. Northfield has a fairly ample supply of food as a surplus, but is supplying other villages.

Only men on horses or on foot can cross the mountain between Roxbury and Northfield, it was learned, the roads being impassable and mountain trails the only means of travel. One shaky bridge at Middlesex is the key to the entire valley.

Dartmouth College students, 600 strong, dressed in the oldest clothes they could muster, and riding in trucks provided by the Claremont, N. H.) Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club, invaded White River Junction today and attacked the mud there.

It was a day of hard work, but lots of fun for the men as they shoveled out the cellars and first floors of houses, opened some of the clogged streets and cleaned out a section that the flood left all over the town.

Official report places the number of bridges destroyed in the flood at 284, but the entire State has not yet been surveyed and the total is expected to reach 500.

A suit for $25,000 growing out of the flood was filed today by two West Springfield men, Hans and Valborg Madsen, against the Eastern States Exposition, Inc., and Connecticut Valley Realty Company. It is alleged the property of the plaintiff was damaged because of the lowering of a dike by the defendants.

Persons going to Montpelier, Vt., were urged today to take their own provisions, and were also warned not to count on getting gasoline in that town.

Spirituous liquors seized during the Food at Rutland, Vt., were used today by the police as anti-freeze fluid for automobile radiators.

DOCTOR IS HELD; WOMAN ILL

Dr. Christopher A. Nelson of Cambridge, was held in $10,000 bail today, when arraigned in East Cambridge court charged with performing illegal surgery on Mrs. Ena Haggmen, of Belmont, mother of two children.

Dr. Nelson pleaded not guilty, and was held for a hearing November 17 by Judge Stone, pending the recovery or death of Mrs. Haggmen who is critically ill at Cambridge Hospital.

The arrest was made by the Cambridge police originally at the request of the Belmont authorities but later Capt. John J. Canney decided that his men had jurisdiction and the physician was brought to Cambridge headquarters.

and what followed she said she had nothing to do with the auto.

"I delivered my dispatch and noticed that the same woman had crossed to the other side of the platform in a remote corner. I stepped up to her and asked what she was doing there and later returned away from me and concealed the side of her face with her hand.

"I'm waiting for some one," she replied and, thinking she might have an engagement, I went into the station and thought no more about it. There were a dozen railroad men in the waiting room. I supposed she might have a date with one of them, but as I thought it over today I concluded she was the detective's wife. She wore a tight fitting turban and a dark coat with a raccoon collar."

Dr. Forbush and Chief of Police White hurried to Claremont Junction, the environs of which they searched on Wednesday, after hearing that the woman said she was going to walk back to the junction.

TO SEND BOY SCOUTS.

Superintendent A. B. Kellogg of the public schools arranged with Chief White today to send out posses of Boy Scouts and schoolboys to comb the woods and buildings surrounding Claremont Junction. Mr. Kellogg was aided by Commander Leonard H. Fletcher of the American Legion, Post 13.

Chief of Police Howard requested today that the local unit of New Hampshire National Guard be called out to aid in the search, but Adjutant-General Charles Howard said that he was compelled to deny the request as it would be illegal unless ordered by a competent authority.

IN THICK WOODS.

The hunt today centred in the thick belt of woods skirting Claremont Junction and in the Methodist camp ground, where Dr. Forbush and Chief of Police Daniel E. White found two cottages that were accessible through unfastened windows, but no trace of recent occupancy was found.

The fact that Mrs. Forbush bought groceries and eating utensils here on Sunday and Monday gave rise to the theory that she is hiding in some remote camp or deserted barn or shanty.

Mrs. Erminia Baldacci, who conducts a store on Main street, said today:

"I am satisfied that the well-dressed, cultured young woman with blonde bobbed hair who came into my store Sunday night was Mrs Forbush. I told my folks so as soon as I saw her picture. And I mentioned the incident before I heard anything about this case.

"She asked for a can of beans and a loaf of bread. When I asked her what kind she wanted she said she didn't know, as she was a stranger."

Mrs. Blanche E. Hesselton, clerk in a department store, said:

"The young woman who made purchases in this store on Monday was Mrs. Forbush. I was convinced as soon as the police showed me her picture today."

CHANGED STOCKINGS.

"She came to the basement at 9:30. Leon Singerman store manager, was in the basement with me and served her. She bought an egg stick, an aluminum cup and a knife from him and was very business like. Then she came over to me in a sort of confidential way and said she wanted to change her stockings.

out the window. Liquor takes care of that."

"Pussyfoot" nearly went on record today in favor of hard cider. In fact, he was on record until he corrected a slip of the tongue. Asked if he believed farmers should be allowed to drink cider, he said, "I believe hard (the hard was withdrawn) cider is all right. This beverage may be kept all Winter in a cold cellar to be consumed during the Summer months. But it must not be coaxed along to the point of alcoholic content."

The alleged dryest man in the world believes that other countries will follow the United States in adopting prohibition.

"Mussolini shut up 2,000 wine shops. He wanted the owners to stop fiddling around the group shows and go to work. England's "pubs" are closed for fifteen hours a day, just nine less than our own. Denmark will be dry. The Balkans are beginning to understand prohibition, but much work must be done in Germany and France."

"Pussyfoot" said he failed to understand why the vets were so perturbed about the liquor question. "They get all they want," he said, adding that most of the stuff was "frost-nit" and that it was their funeral if they imbibed.

name of Purnell and his wife "Queen" Mary.

All members and former members will be given a receiver bills showing how much money and how much labor they have contributed. It will be his task to see that the party is so as to repay each man as far as possible. After all debts are paid members as desire to remain in the colony may do so by pooling a part of the property as property belongs to them.

The decision does not go the full length desired by the settlers. Judge Read [illegible] any event, the dissolution of the colony. To do this, he holds, would be to interfere with the rights of those who wish to continue the communal enterprise.

Because Purnell conducted the colony to further his immoral designs the organization is found to be fraud. And those who have contributed money or labor to it are entitled to payment.

Wholesale perjury, evidently directed by the colony authorities and taught as a part of their religion aroused the anger of the court and the charges indicate a condition of affairs which does well to bring suit upon its part thereof.

The colony's defense that the charges against Benjamin resulted from a conspiracy of women anxious to obtain money and to ruin the colony was disproved, in Judge Read's opinion.

"It is not probable," the opinion declares, "that women of their evident character have voluntarily violated the desire of women to safeguard their good names and have publicly confessed their ruin, and it be all a lie.

"Mary knew the truth," Judge Read declared. "Knew that upon these girls Benjamin brought such pressure as the individual case required."

Prisoner Selects His Hotel for the Winter

Patrick Gilligan, 73, chose the Middlesex County Jail among the State's "hotels" when asked by Judge Arthur P. Stone in Cambridge District Court today to pick his own home for the Winter.

Tempering justice with mercy, Judge Stone called Gilligan out of the dock to his bench when the police described his unhappy plight as a vagrant.

"I don't want to confine you, but want to send you where you will receive proper care during the cold Winter months. Do you care to go to the State Farm?" he asked.

"No, your honor," the old man replied. "I want to live with Johnny F. Coburn (Sheriff John H. Fairbairn)."

"Granted," the court said. "Four months in the House of Correction."

DE VALERA FIGHTS FOR REPEAL OF SAFETY ACT

Dublin, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Eamon De Valera, Irish Republican leader, today in the Dail moved repeal of the government's Public Safety act which came into effect after the assassination of Vice-President Kevin O'Higgins. De Valera condemns the power the act gives for arbitrary arrests and deportations in the case of those accused of threatening the safety of the State.

Minister of Finance Blythe opposed De Valera's motion, but moved an admendment restricting its operation to two years instead of five.

DEMAND ABOLITION OF NUISANCE TAXES

Washington, Nov. 10.—A concerted drive for repeal of the left-over war "nuisance" taxes was launched here on the House ways and means committee today by representatives of theatrical, motion picture, baseball, circus, tobacco and other interests.

Ligon Johnson of New York, for the National Theatrical Association declared the 10 per cent tax on theatre tickets selling for more than $1 cent was a burden on the spoken drama. "Since that tax was imposed," he said, "the number of shows on the road has decreased by one-third."

$50 FINE, ONE MONTH FOR NOAH PERRY, BOXER

He was found guilty and was fined $50 and given a sentence of one month in the House of Correction. He appealed and was held in $1 own recognizance.

Sergeant Frank Gilman of the Brighton station and Special Officers Lewis A. Morton and Herbert B. Dwyer testified regarding his arrest in a room in a downtown hotel. Officials and employees of the hotel denied that Perry was the man who had registered for the room in question.

a curate at St. John's Seminary, was a constant companion and friend of Archbishop Williams. The two prelates took their vacations together each Summer at Lake Hemlock near Rochester, N. Y., and the archbishop, now long dead, served as a big brother to the seminary clergyman.

When Archbishop Williams died he left the cross and ring to Cardinal O'Connell and today the Cardinal, in remembrance of the old friendship, bestowed them upon the newly-consecrated bishop.

As the organ notes rolled and reverberated through the great edifice the harmonized voices of a choir of seminarians from Brighton mingled with the voices of the Cathedral boys' choir and of a sanctuary choir of priests.

The music was heard by hundreds outside in the streets who were unable to get into the Cathedral, but who were allowed by the 40 guarding police to remain up almost to the doors and catch whatever bit they might of the sound.

In services incidental to the main ceremony, the assistants were all priests connected with the Cathedral. They were:

Rev. Fr. George P. O'Conor, crozier bearer, Rev. Fr. William A. [illegible], mitre bearer, Rev. Fr. Richard J. Quinlan, thurifer, Rev. Fr. Ambrose Walker and the Rev. Fr. Richard J. Cushing, acolytes, and the Rev. Fr. Richard P. Barry, assistant to the consecrating Bishops.

McANDREW OF CHICAGO, N. E. SCHOOLS SPEAKER

William McAndrew, superintendent of Chicago schools, who is in process of being ousted by Mayor Big Bill Thompson as a "stooge of King George," will speak at Lorimer tomorrow before the New England Association of School Superintendents. His topic will be "The Man With the Robbed Arm," which may or may not have to do with his experiences in Chicago.

The New England Association, the Massachusetts School Superintendents Association and the New England Training Association, meeting in annual convention here today and tomorrow, will also hear a number of other [illegible] addresses. The meetings except [illegible] will be at the State House. Mr. McAndrew speaking in the Gardner Auditorium.

HARBOR SIRENS WELCOME SHIP FOR NAVY YARD JOB

Greeted by whistles from harbor craft the United States Shipping Board vessel Triumph was towed into Charlestown Navy Yard today for reconditioning which will provide work for the full force of shipwrights who had been threatened with a lay-off.

Work on the vessel will not begin until March, but the gathering of material will keep navy yard workers busy until that time, according to officials at the yard. The expenditure on the vessel, will amount to $1,315,000 and will require fourteen months' labor.

HECKSCHER TO PAY FRIEDA $250,000

if she sang for charity and community services whenever Heckscher requested.

The singer declared Heckscher paid her $12,000 as the first of four payments for the first year of the agreement, but had failed to continue them. Meanwhile, she declared she had lived on her own earnings. Her suit was for $26,000, although on the basis of life expectancy tables it was estimated that one million dollars or more would accrue to the singer under the arrangement.

The American, quoting what it terms an authoritative source, says Miss Hempel has approved the settlement and will return from Europe November 22 to sign formal papers.

In early proceedings in the suit Heckscher denied having made any agreement with the singer and his attorneys in July claimed the action was outlawed by the statute of limitations. The plea was denied.

The suit disclosed Heckscher had made the first payment to the singer in June, 1926, about the time Miss Hempel was divorced in Paris from William B. Kahn, New York banker.

Later reports were circulated that the financier and the singer were engaged and the philanthropist was said to have given Miss Hempel a pearl necklace valued at $1,000,000. Subsequently, however, Heckscher said he was amused at the reports and Miss Hempel deprecated them without denying them.

Lawyer Doesn't Believe Hempel Case Is Settled

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Counsel for Frieda Hempel, operatic soprano, today denied a story printed by the New York American that she had settled out of court for $250,000 a suit brought against Adolph Heckscher, New York philanthropist.

"No such settlement has been made," said Irving L. Ernst, Miss Hempel's lawyer. "None could have been made without my knowledge. Negotiations have been made from time to time, but they have never resulted."

FINED HAVERHILL MEN GUILTY OF RUM RUNNING

Saco, Me., Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Three [illegible] were fined a total of $1,000 each today after a jury in the [illegible] court found them guilty of [illegible] liquor into the state.

George Schulkin was given ten months in jail and fined $1,000. William Sabelman and Meyer Feldman were sentenced to five months and a $500 fine each. All appealed.

Coolidge's Hand-Pat Quiets Wailing of Tow-Headed Tot

Washington, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—The pat of the Presidential hand stopped the wailing of Robert McFarland Russell today after the child had thrown the lobby of the White House executive offices into confusion just when a handshaking group was about to be received by President Coolidge.

The tottering tot, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Russell and born in Barre, Vt., had refused to be quiet even under the threat of his mother that unless he stopped crying he would not be permitted to see the President.

The signal to pass into Mr. Coolidge's office was given and the father, carrying the still yelling child, was pushed along against his will. Then young Robert caught sight of Mr. Coolidge, who patted th shaby on the head. The crying ceased immediately.

ONE KILLED, 2 HURT IN NEW HAVEN ENGINE BLAST

Saybrook, Ct., Nov. 10 (A.P.)—One man was killed and two others are in a serious condition at New London hospital as the result of a boiler explosion in an engine of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad near Grove Beach last night.

The dead man is Phillip McCormick, 60, of New York city, "head end" brakeman. The injured are E. L. Sprague, 37, engineer, of West Haven, and F. S. Wrightington, 34, fireman, of New Haven.

McCormick was riding in the cab with the engineer and the fireman when a boiler flue gave way.

EXPERTS OUT OF STEP ON EFFECT OF SMOKE

What effect Boston's smoke nuisance is having on the public health was the basis of a sharp disagreement among medical men at a public hearing today at the State House.

The hearing was the second of its kind called by the Public Utilities Commission in an investigation ordered by the Legislature.

Dr. A. S. Begg, chairman of the health committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, said:

"The committee has been unable to find definite evidence that the presence of smoke in the atmosphere of cities has a deleterious effect upon the health of the population. The question does not appear to have been thoroughly studied by the medical profession. In the absence of such studies, a definite opinion cannot be given. But that it is a discomfort and a nuisance must be admitted."

With this statement, Dr. L. Vernon Briggs and Dr. Vincent Y. Bowditch, both of Boston, took issue.

Dr. Briggs read editorials from medical journals and newspapers as evidence showing the smoke to be a danger to health.

"If this smoke kills trees on the Common, I think it might possibly affect human beings," he argued.

WINS WAR BRIDE IN DECADE OF SILENCE

Frank Reed could speak no French, His sweet no English knew, Between them both, though both were loath,
The bonds of rapid grew.

Frank sketched a great and ring, Figure also he'd the love down, And, practised, they both com- bined,
To marriage they were driven

An unusual romance of the war—a romance whose climax was reached today in the United States District Court in Boston—culminated when Frank E. Reed, assistant manager in charge of the New York office of the Bell Telephone Company, married the French bride whom he met ten years ago.

Reed, who was [illegible] and sent with the [illegible] to France years ago, [illegible] the service of his adopted country.

Testing Effect of Music on Insane in Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Dr. Alex B. Herschfield, State alienist, believes "we are on the verge of notable discoveries in musical therapeutics."

A piano recital was given before 2,000 patients at the Dunning State Hospital, with Dr. Herschfield noting the reaction of the listeners, many of whom are violently insane, in the music.

Andre Skalski was the pianist, and Dr. Herschfield made the following notations on his program:

"Chopin, Valse in E minor—Gay music; patients amused.

"Schurmann, Traumerei — Sad music; patients restless.

"Wagner, Bressin, Wotan's Farewell and 'Magic Fire Music —Stimulating.

"Liszt, Liebestraum—Soothing."

The concert was given as part of the experiment to learn the possibilities of music as an aid in the treatment of insanity cases ing her replies in French.

Reed made the trip [illegible] American Legion this year [illegible] expressed intention of remaining with his bride.

At [illegible] light of the room [illegible] revealed when Reed raised [illegible] his proposal consisted of a [illegible] of a Catholic priest, [illegible] Roman court, and a [illegible] of a wedding ring.

The unique proposal was accepted and the wedding performed a few weeks ago in Paris.

PAY ARMISTICE DAY TRIBUTE TO WAR DEAD

Nine years ago tomorrow, at 11 a. m., the guns of war suddenly ceased thundering, aching ear drums were soothed by an unaccustomed peace, and the [illegible] battled troops realized at last fighting was over at last, all peace in sight.

Massachusetts will do her part in observing the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice tomorrow, with celebrations, public and private, and a one-minute silent tribute to departed comrades by all World War veterans as the clocks strike eleven.

Boston observance will center on the Common where ceremonies will be conducted by the veterans' organizations, with Mayor Nichols and a representative of Governor [illegible] present, to be followed by the [illegible] national salute.

EXERCISES IN SCHOOL.

A solid element of sadness will [illegible] into many of the functions of [illegible] societies, inasmuch as [illegible] Armistice Day be part of [illegible] ns of the floods in Vermont.

[illegible] ation of the Armistice, [illegible] was be held in the schools [illegible] and state with an elaborate [illegible] Hillsdale School.

Parades will take place in scores [illegible] cities and towns but that in Boston will be a [illegible] ments of the army, navy and marine corps, with [illegible] The Worcester Post, American Legion Band, and [illegible] veterans' organizations participating.

There will form at 9:30 a. m. be [illegible] Shaw Memorial, opposite the State House, and will march to [illegible] Parkman Bandstand, where Mayor N[illegible] is expected to deliver an address. Major-General Preston Brown, commander of the First Corps Area, and Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the First Naval District, will represent the military forces of the government.

TAPS TO BE SOUNDED.

Commander Richard E. Byrd will be a guest on the platform, and Commander Lyman O. Robinson of the Military Order of the World War will preside. Rev. Herbert S. Johnson will offer prayer.

At [illegible] o'clock taps will be sounded, followed at 11 o'clock by the national salute, fired by Battery C, Third Battalion, 101st Field Artillery, Lieutenant Colonel A. [illegible] commanding. There will be two minutes of silent tribute, while church bells toll, survived by the blowing of [illegible], pealing of bells, playing of patriotic airs on chimes of churches and prayer by the clergymen.

Brief addresses will be made by Commander John Roth, State Department, American Legion, and Commander John Wallace, State Department V. F. W., after which Mayor Nichols will present a cup to the 101st Coast Artillery Corps Reserve, for its efficiency record during the war. Captain John J. Ryan commanding, will receive the trophy, which a marble [illegible] holds.

ANNUAL VICTORY BALL.

This will be followed by Major-General Rob[illegible] Admiral Andrews and prominent [illegible] officers under [illegible] Lord, to [illegible] ing with the "Star Spangled Banner" by the band.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will [illegible] Mayor while Mayor Nichols [illegible] Food relief, Secretary [illegible] Legion [illegible] Military Order of [illegible] Veterans' Association [illegible] Veterans' Association [illegible] Military Post No. 1, V. U. S. ENVOY IN CAROL PLOT FOR 10 MINUTES

Bucharest, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Just as the trial of M. Manollescu, former Undersecretary of Finance, was opening today, Bucharest had a ten-minute sensation when the name of William S. Culbertson, American Minister to Rumania, was dramatically linked with the alleged plot to restore Prince Carol to the throne. It [illegible] a mistake.

One of the local newspapers announced that the American Minister had called at the ministry recently and M. Manollescu [illegible] and left [illegible] card, which fell into the hands of the secret police.

CAUSES SENSATION.

Culbertson is a popular figure among all classes in Bucharest and [illegible] known throughout the capital, already buzzed to high pitch by the Carol conspiracy [illegible]

[illegible] sinister denouement to the [illegible] soon however, when [illegible] inventors of the finding [illegible] of the American diplomat [illegible] said the person became known.

In accordance with European diplomatic etiquette, Mrs. Culbertson's calling card [illegible] Manollescu at the American Legation to leave [illegible] cards on all the members of the Rumanian cabinet [illegible] for an diplomats.

CARD WRONG LIST.

Unhappily the messenger took as [illegible] list an old list of officials containing the name of Manollescu, who was a member of the Avrescu cabinet [illegible] out of office.

The card was duly left at Manollescu's home and his relatives sent it to him at the prison.

Mrs. Culbertson quickly called upon Foreign Minister Titulescu and related the circumstances, whereupon the Rumanian official laughed heartily and said that the government [illegible] believed the story in the first [illegible]

'Canal Barge' Shoes Hid $100,000 Diamonds

New York, Nov. 10 (I.N.S.)—The old myth about "canal barge" feet today had landed six men in jail, resulted in the seizure of $100,000 in smuggled gems and had set the way to a Federal investigation that may result in a dozen or more arrests of international importance.

When Florent Lamed, undersized electrician on the steamer Lapland slapped his two huge shoes down on the dock here and started uptown customs officials were amused by the abnormal size of his feet.

Investigation disclosed shoes many sizes too big for him, but ample for storing a large cargo of smuggled diamonds.

In a general roundup following Lamed's arrest, five others were taken into custody and all held under $25,000 bonds. Federal agents said their activities were only a small part of a million-dollar international diamond smuggling ring.

Mr. McCann was a prominent [illegible] of the Boston Lodge of Elks and past assistant district grand exalted ruler of Massachusetts. He had served as an officer of Suffolk County for 19 years.

BENJAMIN T. HILL, 64, DIES AT HOME OF SISTER

Worcester, Nov. 10 (AP)—Benjamin Thomas Hill, sixty-four, member of American Antiquarian Society and widely known for his research and his private collection of [illegible] stone stores, died here last night at the home of his sister, Mrs. Walter [illegible] Chandler.

HOW, WHEN AND WHAT IN THE DINING ROOM

Soundly has side dishes for the vegetables and more and you never served [illegible] a second helping of any [illegible] at your guest.

[illegible] were [illegible] contained in a recent [illegible] lecture by Mrs. [illegible] L. Fenn, [illegible] of the [illegible] of 1847 Rogers Brothers at [illegible] being given in the assembly [illegible] Jordan Marsh Company [illegible] some of her advice:

DO'S

Pass olives, celery and the like but once during dinner.

Use an oblong table if you would be fashionable.

Use oblong doilies on oblong tables and round doilies on round tables.

Candles, if on the table, must be lighted.

Use silver service plates at luncheon.

Neatly cut butter squares are to be preferred rather than butter balls.

A dessert plate, with doilie and finger bowl, is presented to each guest at the dessert course, and the guest removes both doilie and bowl.

When removing dishes, the meat platter goes first, then the vegetables and then the dinner plates.

Arrange flat silver on the table with cutting edge of knives toward the plate; spoons are placed with bowls up and forks with tines.

DON'TS

Don't serve corn at dinner when a guest is present; it is not a company vegetable.

Never allow food to touch a service plate.

Dishes, when being removed, should never be stacked.

A tray is never used in removing dishes, but one may be used when taking away salt, pepper, condiments, cream and other accessories.

Never crumb the table—which is to be done only just before dessert—by erasing with a folded napkin and a plate.

NOBEL PRIZE AWARDED ITALIAN WOMAN WRITER

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Swedish Academy today awarded the 1926 Nobel prize for literature to Grazia Deledda, Italian author. Signora Grazia Deledda is the second woman to win the prize.

The 1927 award was postponed until next year.

Poor and lonely life of her native island has furnished a large part of the topics of Grazia Deledda's novels. Her novels are little known in the United States although they have been translated into English.

The [illegible] was one of seven women given a place in the Italian Academy of Immortals created by the Fascist [illegible] year.

GETS $9,500,000 IN LAND AFTER HALF A CENTURY

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 10 (AP)—After waiting nearly half a century [illegible] is reward for advisory services to the Pueblo Indians of Arizona, R. B. Marsh, mining engineer, today [illegible] a deed to 375,000 acres of land in that state valued by him at $9,500,000, given him.

He succeeded Colonel Robert P. Hunter, sent from Washington by the Carlisle Bureau of Missions for Indians. Colonel Hunter acquired title to about 17,000 acres, half of which goes to Marsh.

NANKING ARMY CAPTURES HUPEH PROVINCE CITIES

Shanghai, Nov. 10 (I.N.S.)—Nanking troops have captured Ichang, Hupeh province city on the Yangtze River, 1,000 miles from the coast, it was officially announced today.

The capture of Ichang, which has been under siege for several days, was announced by Chiang Kai-shek, commander-in-chief of the Nanking armies.

Ichang is the last important city in Hupeh province before Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang are reached.

As a result of their advance, the Nanking troops now are within 150 miles of the city of Wuchang and Hankow, residents of which were uneasy due to attempts by the invaders to [illegible] subordinates of General Tang Shengchi.

GIRL BITTEN SAVING HER PET CHOW

Rescuing her pet chow from the clutches of a big police dog that had him by the throat, 14-year-old Edna Landers was severely wounded in her home at No. 30 Beal street, Brookline.

Bleeding from a deep scalp wound, the girl was rushed to Peter Bent Brigham Hospital at high speed by her mother Mrs. Pearl Landers, using her own car as an ambulance. Doctors took several stitches in the scalp and gave first aid treatment.

The dog fight resulted when a girl friend of Evelyn's arrived with her police dog and the chow, "Teeto" being a well-trained watch dog, waited not for an introduction, Some damage was done in the reception hall as the dogs mixed it up.

PITTSTON HIGH SCHOOL DAMAGED BY BOMB BLAST

Pittston, Pa., Nov. 10 (I.N.S.)—A bomb exploded on the main stairway in the south entrance of the new high school building today. The explosion was heard throughout the city. Most of the windows in the Pittston Area High School, which was dedicated last week, were shattered, and the school building was severely damaged by the force of the explosion.

HUB NAVAL MEN AT BIGGEST SUB LAUNCHING

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 10 (A.P.)—The 4,000-ton submarine V-4 was launched at the Portsmouth Navy Yard at 1:30 p. m. today.

Miss Phyllis Moore, daughter of Rear Admiral W. Burtt, U. S. N., chief of the bureau of engineering, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., was sponsor for the vessel, which will be commanded by Lieut.-Comdr. Stanley Kimball, U. S. N., of Newport, R. I. The V-4 is the first submarine to be launched at the Portsmouth Navy Yard since 1923.

Admiral Burtt, Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commandant of the First Naval District, Boston, Mass., and a group of naval officers were present.

The V-4 is the first submarine launched at the Portsmouth Navy Yard since 1923. She is 341 feet long and will have a speed of 17 knots on the surface and 8 knots submerged. She will be armed with four 21-inch torpedo tubes in the bow and two 21-inch torpedo tubes in the stern. She will also be armed with a 4-inch gun on the deck and will have a complement of 4 officers and 44 men.

The V-4 will be the 14th submarine launched at the Portsmouth Navy Yard since the close of the World War.

U. S. SETS NEW HIGH MARK FOR PROSPERITY

New York, Nov. 10 (I.N.S.)—Secretary of Commerce Hoover, at the end of the World War, pointed out the needs of the United States in carrying a higher standard of living than ever before.

"We see high living costs are the reason. The future seems

Further deductions from statistics made exclusively to International News Service today by Magnus W. Alexander, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, when asked to discuss conditions today as compared with Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918, and as compared with 1914. This board employs an army of statisticians to check up on the cost of living, the trend of wages and other conditions.

"The standard of living in America today is very high, said Alexander. "Whereas in 1918 some 5,000,000 motor cars were registered there were nearly 20,000,000 registered as cars in 1926, our latest figures.

"Luxuries have become common. More costly materials are being used in clothing. Cosmetics, tobacco and the like to be used to even increasing quantities per capita of population.

"There are more barbers, manicurists and other persons doing services of various sorts per 1,000 population than in years gone by. House servants have decreased proportionally, their place being taken by mechanical devices which have reduced the drudgery in housework.

"Another significant evidence of improved standards of living, he said, is the ever greater number of the population from year to year to be found in schools and higher institutions of learning.

"Average weekly earnings in the manufacturing industries today are more than double what they were in July, 1914 and nearly a fourth more than on Armistice Day, 1918.

"Compared with 1914, the average weekly earnings of the factory employee have a far greater purchasing power. That is, the weekly pay envelope today will buy about a third more of the necessities than at the outbreak of the war.

"The worker in the United States today enjoys a higher real purchasing power than the worker in any other country, or any other period of time."

Red itching blisters on baby's face healed by Resinol

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 10.—"My baby had eczema for three months and nothing seemed to do him any good until I tried your products. His cheeks were red and covered with blisters, and the itching was so annoying that he could not sleep. After reading your ad in the paper I purchased a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap. Only a few applications stopped the itching entirely, and within a week the redness was gone and his skin practically clear. Your ointment is really wonderful and I will praise it to everyone." Greatest Money-Saving SALE OF PIANOS -Ever Held by J. P. COLLINS

Uprights $25 TO $150 Players $75 TO $250

MY recent purchase of a big stock from a New York manufacturer who was in the hands of his creditors was a big scoop for me. He needed the cash and needed it so badly that the stock was sacrificed to me. It seemed that business was so dull in the piano trade generally that there was no immediate retail outlet for these beautiful pianos. I knew that I could sell them almost at once if I priced them low enough, and at the above prices they are going like hot cakes. Don't wait too long—come in today.

I have noticed recently a tendency in some places to appropriate my style of publicity—maybe I had better say appropriate it. Well, help yourself, gentlemen, to my slogans, especially the one which reads "I would rather sell 100 Pianos at $1 a piece profit than to sell one at $100 profit." Help yourself to my equipment, my methods, and if necessary, you can help yourself to the famous Collins Bank Roll. Believe me, I want to help everybody. I help myself by making prices on my pianos so low that the people come to me for real bargains. Didn't Shakespeare say that—"Nothing is good or bad, but thinking makes it so." Think on constructive lines, brothers of the trade, think good business and you'll find a way to make it good. And, say, didn't Kipling say—"The Colonel's Lady and Judy O'Grady are the same under the skin." There IS A difference under the skin or case in pianos—that' why I say: These players and pianos are slightly used—but remember always that a Used Player, Upright or Grand of a High Grade make is much better than a new instrument of an inferior grade.

RADIO DIALOG

by

C. WILLIAM RADOS

THE radio law forces each broadcaster to allow equal time to each party. Last night we tuned in opposing politicians.

Announcer, "Now we are going to present Mr. Adolph M. T. Head, Democratic candidate for the ginger ale and ice commission. Mr. Head will now take the microphone."

M. T. Head, "I will not take the microphone. That is what my unworthy opponent, Phineas I. Kook, would do if he is in office. Not only would he take the microphone but the announcer, tubes and studio if not nailed down.

* * *

"My public record has always shown me on the side of the people. In 1917 I helped in the scarcity of labor by panching four time cards on the shipyard. In 1919 I sympathized for two years with the plumbers' strike. Since then I have walked out with the laundry workers' protest. I stand by the people."

* * *

Announcer, "The principles expressed by the last speaker are not necessarily those of this station. We will now present Mr. Rastus Z. Ashtray."

* * *

Mr. Ashtray: "Why is it that the announcer, who is a worthy gentleman and staunch Republican, said he did not believe Alonzo Q. Grafterty."

* * *

Mr. Ashtray: "Go down to City Hall and watch Alonzo Grafterty! He says he stands by the people. All he does all day long is stand around and talk to people instead of working. And then, gentlemen of the radio audience and Democrats, when he gets tired standing, do you know what he does?"

"Alonzo Q. Grafterty goes into that office the dear people have paid for an SITS DOWN. Mind you, fellow citizens, he sits down on a chair you have paid for.

"But this is not all. I have uncovered an act of Grafterty's that makes Benedict Arnold seem a Saint in comparison. Grafterty has a cot in his office which he alleges is used for overtime work. Alonzo Q. Grafterty not only STANDS and SITS, but he LAYS down." Vote for me next Tuesday."

In changing day, time and length of the Goodrich broadcast, Silvertown appears to have lost its former excellence. Possibly last night was an "off" night. Too much supper or something.

Regardless of that, however, it is a serious mistake, we believe, to change the day of broadcast, or the hour, or both.

* * *

There are so many programs on the air those nights that no one can hear them all. An audience accustomed through the years to certain features at fixed times is the best audience.

* * *

We caught only the end of the Columbia phonograph hour, but it was a fine end. Then the announcer spoiled it by mentioning "Columbia" sixteen times in two and a half minutes. "Please comment," begged he.

All right, say we; please economize on closing speeches.

* * *

It is our opinion that last night was poorer for DX than Tuesday night. Static was feeling better and signals were weaker. KDKA, Pittsburgh; WOR, Newark; WTAM, Cleveland; WGY, Schenectady; WGG, Worcester; WEAF, WJZ, WJG, New York. WOR and WTAM were the best by far. WEEI and WTAG have poor heterodyne squeals that spoil much. WBET, Medford, has improved greatly in quality since last week.

* * *

We used all seven tubes in our Kellogg electrified radio, and for a change used a big, double cone Acme speaker.

DR. LINDSEY SPEAKS ON ROBERT BURNS

Dr. Samuel Lindsay of the Brookline Baptist Church, addressing the students of the Boston University College of Practical Arts and Letters on "The Poetry of Robert Burns," lauded the Scotch poet as the national hero of the Scotch, and declared that 60,000 persons had visited Burns' birthplace in the last month alone.

"Burns is to Scotland what Napoleon is to France and Lincoln to America," he asserted.

Services are held on Thursdays at 12:20 noon, 5:20 o'clock and 7:45 p. m. Father Donovan will preach at the 5:20 and 7:45 services.

SHEIK BANDITS USE GIRLS IN BIG ROBBERY

New York, Nov. 10 (I.N.S.)- Forcing two maids to accompany them on their tour from room to room, two "sheik" bandits early today ransacked the apartment of Mrs. Meyer Rosenstein and escaped with jewelry valued at $20,000.

The two bandits rang the apartment bell, flourished a gun as one of the maids appeared at the door and proceeded to "out the premises. The maids are sisters.

FLOOD POSTPONES N. E. TRAFFIC CLUB MEETING

Due to the flood, the "Canadian Night" meeting of the Traffic Club of New England was today postponed from November 15 to some date in January to be announced later.

This action was taken by officers of the club because, in their opinion, traffic and transportation executives of New England and eastern Canada will wish to devote their entire time to their duties for weeks to come. The annual meeting will be held December 8.

BODY OF SLAIN MAN FOUND IN WOODS

Marlboro, Nov. 10—Murder was uncovered by the stirring of vagrant breezes just off the highway in the Lake William woods today when the body of an unidentified man that had been fully clothed, but with the head and face covered by a handkerchief, was found by Alfonso Picard of 6 Church st, Marlboro.

Picard, with Joseph Lavoie and Ernest Gaudette, also of Marlboro, notified Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath of the northern district of Suffolk County who also notified Chief of Police Finn for he has no station.

Chief Police William H. Finn, after viewing the body, and observing the contents of an automobile tire, naked and covered the body of that unknown. Picard, Lavoie and Gaudette refused.

Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath of the northern district of Suffolk County was also notified by Chief of Police Finn for he has no station.

"It is a plain case of death by violence through foul play," the police chief declared.

Wife Says Husband's Love Wandered Across Ocean

Love that strayed across the sea—such is the allegation—inspired a wife in London to file suit today for alienation of affections against a woman in Quincy.

The suit, setting $25,000 as the price of the alleged lost love was filed in Norfolk Superior Civil Court at Dedham by Mrs. Bessie M. Harper of London.

She accuses Helen M. Dembo of Quincy of stealing the love, affection and companionship of Thomas F. Harper.

BOSTON ASKED TO BACK AIR PROGRAM

basis of our military policy. It is intended purely for defense and does not contain the slightest tinge of aggression.

"In sharp contrast to the lack of preparedness in 1917 stands the definite program of preparedness laid down in the National Defense Act. We have made effective progress in welding our regular troops, National Guard units and reserves into a well coordinated organization.

MOBILIZING FOR WAR.

"Provisions have been made not only for handling our army units in terms of entire divisions, but also for the requirements of an organization as large as the American Expeditionary Force, sub-divided into field armies, corps and divisions.

"In mobilization for war, three major factors demand consideration—transporting, training and supplies of these, the supply factor is the governing item, because armies without equipment are as useless as trains without locomotives.

"Even as the military establishment of the country is divided into corps areas, so the industrial organization is zoned into districts. All the War Department studies are based on the fundamental proposition that the entire country will fight to win with the same vigor and the same spirit of self sacrifice as do the men who go to battle.

WHOLE NATION MUST FIGHT.

"Modern war is a war of nations. The day of conflict between armies alone has passed. Industry, as well as man power, is thrown into the fracas."

The Curtiss-Wright Flying Service Pinchon post, through its commander, Travers D. Carman, presented Commander Byrd with a small silk American flag to be carried on his coming flight to the South Pole. Commander Byrd who is an honorary vice-commander of the post, paid a graceful tribute to Lieutenant Bloomberger, whom he designated as "the best all-round navigator of the United States, and a navigator who, though not web-footed, has developed the science to such a high degree that the navy must take its hat off to him, though it will not lose much time in catching up with him."

Among those present were: Major Edward H. Cooper, James F. Fitz, vice-commander Cossacks Pinchon Post; Charles J. Heath, vice-president Boston Shoe Co.; Chester A. Porter, vice-commander, Cossacks-Pinchon Post; Dudley Willard J. Bixbee, regional director U. S. Veterans' Bureau; Arthur L. Richmond, eighth District's committee on aviation; Captain Robert W. Raymond, Jr., Medford Air Board of Boston; Lieutenant-Colonel W. C. Jones, Section F, Army Base; Clifford D. Tobey, ex-president N. A. A.; Colonel F. C. Bonnevalle, quartermaster's Depot, Army Base; Rear Commander John W. Farr, Spanish War Veterans; Jon Anderson, 2 Prince, president Boston Chamber of Commerce; Colonel Edward C. Logan, Yankee 26th Division, National Guard; Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, ex-commander 26th Division, National Guard; Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Hearst newspapers in Boston; Burnelle C. Bartlett, entertainment committee Cossacks-Pinchon Post; Major-General Malvern H. Lyman, Colonel Frank P. Wilkins, surgeon-general of Commonwealth; Lieutenant-Colonel Carroll J. Swan Theodore G. Holcombe, president Boston Chamber, N. A. A.; Colonel M. Stuart Bodge, American vice-commander, Cossacks-Pinchon Post; Captain David T. Horton, connected with Veterans' Bureau; Frank W. LAWRENCE MAN HELD FOR HAVING 2 WIVES

Lawrence, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Albert J. Milton, otherwise known as Carrigan, rooming house proprietor, was held in $500 bonds for the Essex County Grand Jury here today when Judge F. N. Chandler, in District Court found probable cause to hold him for polygamy. Milton, or Carrigan, was arrested following the complaint of his first wife, the former Ethel A. Frederic of Wilton N. H. who alleged he married her in 1910 and then married Roberta A. Niche in 1919 without securing a divorce from wife No. 1. Neither of the two women was in court today.

Steal Cloth Worth $1,500

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Burglars broke into a clothier's store on the principal street of the city early today and stole suit cloth worth $1,500.

Hub Man Tells How Hard Coal Can 'Come Back'

Mount Carmel, Pa., Nov. 10.—The creation of a permanent, public governing board to promote prosperity for the anthracite industry was the goal today of the anthracite co-operative congress.

W. A. Clark of Boston, president of the New England Coal Dealers' Association, urged co-operation by all the branches of the industry. He reviewed some of the reasons why anthracite has taken into disrepute with the public, and pointed out unethical business methods sometimes practiced.

"Let the mining companies ship only coal that is prepared under the standard form of screenment, size and quality," he said.

"Let the miners produce more coal per capita, and thus reduce the overhead cost of mining. Distribute anthracite through established retail coal dealers, reduce the Summer freight rate at a lower rate per ton than during the Winter."

The proposed board's three principal purposes would be to sure clean coal, to create new sales fields and to prevent future strikes.

MILLICENT HAS SAILED WITH HER NEW LOVE

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Millicent Rogers Hands and her husband, Arturo Peralta Ramos, sailed at noon today for Chile aboard the Grace liner Santa Elisa. They came to the pier unaccompanied.

Dressed in mourning, on account of the death of her grandfather George H. Benjamin, today, Mrs. Ramos jumped from a taxicab at the pier in Brooklyn, dashed up the gangplank clinging to the arm of her husband and hiding her face from photographers. The couple locked themselves in their suite aboard the vessel.

EASTMAN GOING BACK TO JUNGLE FOR HUNT

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 10 (I.N.S.).—Announcing that he was planning another big game hunt in the African jungles, George Eastman today donated his entire collection of African mammals, heads to the Rochester Municipal Museum.

The kodak king will leave on another expedition December 14, accompanied by Philip Percival, noted English big game hunter, and Dr. Albert Kaiser of Rochester. Moving picture equipment will play a large role in the hunt, Eastman said.

WHITING WILLIAMS ON WOES OF THE WORKERS

Whiting Williams, a one time vice-president of a steel corporation and later an overalled worker and investigator in the mines and steel mills over the world, spoke today at noon at the Old South Meeting House, talking for his subject, "What is in the Worker's Mind?"

He described in detail many of the intolerable conditions that exist and how workers have to work under with no opportunity to give voice to their grievances.

Tomorrow noon at the Old South Chief Frank Knox publisher of the Hearst newspapers in Boston will speak on "A Dependable Peace." He will answer questions.

RAID $500,000 UNDERGROUND BEER PLANT

Detroit, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—A subterranean brewery, its intricate system of basements and passageways yielding beer and liquor-making paraphernalia worth $500,000, has been found here by Federal prohibition agents. So extensive was the plant that it occupied an entire city block of basements and most of the ice buildings above.

A fashionable night club, which was believed to be the headquarters and general offices of the underground plant, as deserted when ten agents swooped upon the place.

In the dining room, where nearly 200 tables were set, many laden with steaming viands, there were evidences of a hasty exit by patrons. On a 150-foot bar at the rear of the dining room were glasses containing beer or whiskey. The serving counter was stocked full.

Included in contraband which the agents seized were:

A beer vat containing 22,000 gallons of beer, several hundred barrels of beer, a large quantity of bottled beer, eleven cases of whiskey, eighteen 5,000 gallon vats of beer, three 25,000-gallon vats of beer, and a half of filter paper pulp used in purifying beer, three 50,000 gallon wooden whiskey tanks, empty; a large ammonia refrigerating plant, a "racket" machine used in filling kegs, five large automobile trucks

DeMille's Latest Film Find Has Rare Beauty

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Nov. 10.—Beauty is not always marketable in skeptical Holl.wood, where there are more beautiful women parading Hollywood boulevard than there are in any city in the world. That's why Felix Young, an agent, was so long in convincing the producers here of Nonia Karloff's value as a screen attraction. Cecil De Mille saw her and his practiced eye at once appreciated that if her taste did justice to her exquisite face he had a discovery.

Her tests were all anyone could ask and so she was signed pronto. For a fleeting moment there was talk that she might play the feminine lead in "The Godless Girl" but Mr. De Mille told me she is too exotic a type to play an American schoolgirl.

"Who will play the girl?" I begged.

His answer was noncommittal, but I did succeed in getting him to say that the choice has now virtually narrowed down to Jina Gasquette and Alberta Vaughn. He had many pleasant things to say about each young woman and her chance of winning the coveted role.

As for the boy—the search is still on, with new tests being made every day.

Good thing Lawrence Stallings and his attractive and popular wife have decided that Hollywood is too per cent. to their liking. Irving Thalberg, who is entirely sold on Mr. Stallings as a writer, has given him enough work to do to keep him busy for he next six months.

A Ramon Novarro play is now in the process of creation—a dramatic story, lying told me, and an excellent vehicle for Novarro. Then there is "Dead Game," which John Gilbert will do following. "The Cossack" an original from the prolific pen of the author of "The Big Parade" and "What Price Glory."

It's a far cry from Menelaus in "Helen of Troy" to a part in a modern newspaper story. Yet most people welcome changes. Lewis Stone has been chosen as the lead in "Freedom of the Press." Peter B. Kyne's original story, which I'm versal swears by the great horn spoon is a real newspaper story, suppose Mr. Stone plays a manager, editor or a city editor, or some kind of an editor. He's not young enough to figure romantically as a cub reporter.

George Melford will direct. If these lace curtains in the newspaper office and flowers on the managing editor's desk, with gold framed photographs of his family here and there, I hope the picture gets bad notices.

DOG IN THEATRE BITES GIRL AND POLICEMAN

A dog attacked a girl usher and a policeman in the New Wollaston Theatre, Wollaston, today, before it was finally lassoed and killed by a policeman from the station. Miss Dorothy Schults of Fenns street, Wollaston, usher at the theatre, was bitten on the ankle when she attempted to move the dog from under one of the seats. Patrolman James MacKay was bitten on the right wrist. He threw a rope around the neck of the dog, dragged it to the street and killed it.

Both girl and policeman were treated at a hospital. The head of the dog was sent to the Harvard Medical School for analysis.

OSCAR SLATER JAILED FOR 20 YEARS SOON BE FREED

London, Nov 10 (A.P.)—Oscar Slater, whose case has become known here as "Britain's own Sacco-Vanzetti affair," will be freed soon Slater, a German Jew and alien, has convicted more than eighteen and one-half years of his life sentence for murder. It is the custom of Great Britain to parole life prisoners of good conduct after fifteen or twenty years have been served.

Slater was convicted of beating a defenseless old woman to death unmurably for the purpose of robbery.

LONESOME, SETS FIVE FIRES AT COLLEGE

St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, Nov. 10 (I.N.S.).—Investigation by insurance officials of the cause of the fire that destroyed St. Hyacinthe Seminary last month and subsequent sporadic blazes, today led to the admission of Edmond Allard, 18, a pupil, that he had made five attempts to set fire to college buildings.

He was lonesome and wanted more holidays, young Allard told Judge Marin. He was held for arson.

SLEUTH TELLS OF TRAILING MRS. DOANE

For a full hour, in the night shadows thrown by a Commonwealth avenue apartment house, Mrs. Maude A. Doane was in an automobile of van by Charles E. Tate, a detective testified today in Norfolk Probate Court at Dedham.

The detective gave his testimony on behalf of George E. Doane, wealthy Brookline yachtsman, who is being sued on separate report, but who, in a cross suit, accused Mrs. Doane of misconduct with Tate. Mrs. Doane, in her suit, names Mrs. Florence Densmore of Brookline.

James A. Crawford who said he had had 18 years experience as a detective, detailed his trailing of Mrs. Doane and Tate through many evenings, and some of his fellowmen of Mrs. Doane he said, took him to doors that led into church meetings.

TWO MOTIONS DENIED.

Mrs. Doane's side "rested" today when the case and Judge Joseph R. McCoole denied motions to dismiss the petitions of Mrs. Doane against her husband, and the petition of Mrs. Doane naming Mrs. Densmore as "the other woman."

"On both these motions, at this time," said Judge McCoole, "I will enter a decree of disallowance and will hear the testimony of the respondent and co-respondent."

Detective Crawford after detailing a number of instances in which he said he followed Mrs. Doane and saw her step into an automobile driven by Tate, testified as regards the night of March 18:

"I saw Mrs. Doane leave her home in Commonwealth avenue with another woman and board a car for Brookline Village. They changed there for a surface car to Roxbury, where they entered the Gospel Tabernacle.

MR. TATE AND HIS CAR.

"At 7:30 Mr. Tate arrived in his car. At 9 p. m. the women reappeared and entered Mr. Tate's car. It was driven to Newton, where the other woman got out and entered a house. The others went to the front entrance of Mrs. Doan's apartment house. She got out and entered the house. Tate drove around to the rear and at 10:15 Mrs. Doane came out and got into the car, which remained standing. At 11:15 she got out again and went back into the house."

Miss Greta G. Hill, student nurse who said she was a domestic in the home of Mrs. Densmore from 1924 to 1926, testified that during all that Summer she never saw Mrs Densmore leave her home, excepting on two occasions.

Doane was asked to stand up in the courtroom and Miss Hill was asked if she could identify him. The girl replied she had never seen him before.

Long Flight Called Off

Cologne, Germany, Nov. 10 (I.N.S.)—Otto Koennecke, German aviator, who hoped to hop off September 20 to fly to San Francisco by stages, is ill of fever in Berlin and has abandoned the flight.

SEES WAVE OF CRIME AMONG OFFICIALS

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.)—The nature of a crime wave in public life came to the fore today in the burning of Professor Luther Gulick of Columbia University, director of the National Institute of Public Administration, against "political debauchery" extending over half the country.

In a survey of inefficiency in American public life, Dr. Gulick of the governmental research conference that despite belief in the contrary graft and corruption still dwell in governmental administration.

Debauchery in government, he declared, exists all the way from Kansas City, with its contracting, to Chicago, with its cry of "burn the books," to New York State and the fired "pipe money speculations of Ex-Secretary of State Florence S. Knapp, former Secretary of State.

WORKS OF TIGER.

Even the "young Tammany of Governor Smith and Mayor Walker," he asserted, "has not altered the character of the tiger," which, he said, has not become so much as a sparkle blonde.

The ridicule heaped on Chicago, in his opinion, was not the proper attitude to take "toward a regime which is systematically corrupting and disintegrating what little administrative efficiency Chicago had retained."

"The cry, 'burn the books,' arises in our blood the memories of fairs and inquisitions, of warfare, piety and the struggle for freedom but it diverts attention from political manipulation of taxes and assessments, building inspection, the enforcement of law and protection of citizens."

MUNICIPAL UPHEAVAL.

"In recent political upheaval in Memphis, the laxity and fraud with reference to the enforcement of the prohibition law, "where the blind act is regarded as an alien institution," and the New York City scandals all were mentioned by the speaker.

"Our oil leases have at last been given in their true colors," he added, adding that "some portraits will have been done in oil by the United States courts will long hang in the hall of shame."

He said, however, there is an encouraging side, pointing out that Nassar, N. Y., "already well governed, will be the foremost example of good government in five years," an able city manager, Cincinnati also had effected reforms, he said.

YOUNGEST "WHO'S WHO" IS MARRIED IN MAINE

Bristol, Me., Nov. 10 (A.P.)—Thomas R. Williamson of Portland, author, traveler and teacher, and Sarah Storer Smith of New Bedford were married last night by Rev. George King, pastor of the Congregational Church, at the parsonage.

They were attended by Misses Ina Reilley and Dorothy Feltis, friend of the bride.

The bridegroom, who is thirty-five, was said to have been the youngest person listed last year in "Who's Who."

look after their policy-holders' teeth at cost plus a reasonable profit. The company that built excellent apartment houses to rent for $8 a room might also build dentist chairs to rent for three or four dollars an hour.

Chang Tso Lin, fighting general of North China, wants to be crowned Emperor and has wise men investigating the proper ceremonies.

One really great fighter, greatest perhaps that ever lived, Genghis Khan, made himself lord of China, didn't condescend to take the throne at all, and never went back inside the Chinese wall. He sent some one else to do the ruling for him.

General Chang, who makes his visits with a machine gun mounted on his private automobile, was formerly a bandit. But bandits have become emperors, and many emperors have been bandits, since and before Alexander and Napoleon.

Another oil gentleman declines to testify concerning the trailing of jurymen in the oil case. He says it might incriminate him. He is probably right about that.

Give "big money" credit for thoroughness. The government already has the names of fourteen different detectives hired to go after graft in the Fall-Sinclair case. "Expense no object" was evidently the motto.

The Reverend Dr. Straton of New York says doctors are unnecessary because "those who are enlightened concerning God's healing powers have no need of doctors."

If the Reverend Doctor should develop a cancer, heaven forbid, or break a leg, he might discover that Providence leaves something for science and the doctors to do. Did the doctor ever hear of faith curing a broken leg in modern times?

Two aviators in the American marine service were murdered in Nicaragua when their machine made a forced landing—killed by a crowd of twenty to one, after desperate fighting.

That is the sort of thing that starts wars. The killing of one man, the Austrian heir apparent, was the spark that started the big war.

No war will start this time, because Nicaragua is too small. A shipmast can't fight an airplane. And besides the government of Nicaragua had nothing to do with it.

President Coolidge is said to favor a repeal of United States inheritance taxes. Many will agree with the President. Why not tax a man while alive, able to earn and to fight, instead of waiting until he is dead and taxing his corpse, or his widow and children?

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Prince Alexis Obolensky to Sing at the Ritz-Carlton Before Select Audience

CERTAIN SMART AND IMPORTANT BOSTONIANS ARE JOTTING down in engagement books an evening marked road with several stars. It is an occasion unusually diverting and quite ultra in swankiness. For then a Russian Prince, friend of one-time Czars and first cousin to Grand Dukes, will lift up his voice in song before Boston's aristocracy. Under a most imposing patronage, in Boston's newest hostelry, before a "Four Hundred" pruned to something like a "Three Hundred," will the Prince Alexis Obolensky make that is perhaps his only Boston appearance.

I BELIEVE MRS. CURTIS GUILD IS HAVING MUCH TODO with Prince Obolensky's first concert appearance here. Which is quite as it should be, since Mrs. Guild knew first hand the glories of the Court of Russia, as Ambassadress, when that centre of imperial pomps and splendors was the most brilliant court in the Old World And since the concert is to be in the Ritz-Carlton, and since the invitation list is noted not for inclusion but rather for elimination, the affair is sure to be a huge success.

MORE THAN ORDINARILY TINGED WITH ROMANCE IS THE Prince. Added to the fact that he is a Prince in exile, he shares with many of his countrymen talents more than the usual. He voice is splendidly trained, having been polished off by the Conent's finest masters. His New York debut was accomplished under the wing of that young czar of many millions, Vincent Astor, who regnized in the auspicious occasion a family obligation, since Prince Seof the house of Obolensky is spouse to Vincent Astor's sister, the fore Miss Muriel. Still another reason for Prince Alexis Obolensky's w popularity is his own very charming spouse.

ON THE UPPER CRUSTY ONES THE PRINCESS OBOLNSKY has made a deep and lasting impression during a bs Boston stay. Just as the gowns she sells have found deep favor he From pleasing a smart clientele in Boston the Princess soon goes Washington, with her frocks and her fripperies. Undoubtedly, tCapital will be warm in its appreciation—for even in the heart of tearth's most democratic country will be found many who adore buy wraps and gowns from the store of a genuine Princess.

EVEN SO EXACTING A TASK as keeping shop has its lighter interludes, however, permitting entertainment of one sort or another. A luncheon at the Somerset Club, with Mrs. Nathaniel Emmons as hostess, was one such festivity. The stay of the Princess is not sufficiently long to permit many affairs, but she is sure to be here in time for the Prince's concert, which will be preluded by ever so many dinners. Important matrons on the subscription list will see to that.

IT'S VERY RARELY THAT MRS. ROBERT TREAT PAINE departs from her predilection for the costume of black with a dash of white for emphasis. As she entertained for her niece, Miss Janice MacNichol, at the Wednesday tea dance at the Copley-Plaza, she was markedly distinguished, in glistening black against which gleamed a strand of pearls and a crystal ornament or two. Mrs. Paine is making a long season at the Waltham country place, not coming to town probably until Thanksgiving.

WINTER AND LATE SPRING in Washington is the pleasant prospect before Miss Isaac Thorndike, daughter of the Harry Hill Thorndikes of Marlborough street. From the holiday season on Miss Thorndike will be dipping in the social seas of the National Capital. Just about the same time Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Delafield (Helen Thorndike) will be back from honeymooning to set up a Boston establishment. I believe they have in mind one of the Back Bay's newest and handsomest apartments, those that find utmost favor with the newlyweds for a first home.

WARM WAVE ON WAY TO BOSTON

A rise in temperature west of the Mississippi, which has elevated the mercury above its normal November mark in those parts, is officially predicted tonight to lift New England out of its wintry slump.

Northern Maine and Vermont again experienced biting cold last night, Greenville registering a minimum of 16 above and Northfield, Vt., recording a similar mark.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy, with rising temperature tonight and Friday; moderate to fresh southerly winds.

CAN GET DAMAGES FOR LOSS OF EARNING POWER

A person injured upon a defective highway is entitled not only to damage for bodily injuries, but also for impairment of earning capacity and mental suffering, according to a ruling of the full bench of the Supreme Court today.

The opinion was handed down in overruling the exceptions of the city of Springfield to a verdict of $1,000 given to Edward B. Lewis, 60 years old and blind. On November 28, 1924, while walking along State street at the corner of Goucher street, in Springfield, Lewis fell into a hole, sustaining a fracture of the left shoulder and other injuries, and as a result his earnings were impaired and he suffered mentally.

COLBY TOLD TO TRY FRENCH STYLE DIVORCE

Paris, Nov. 10 (I.N.S.)—Bainbridge Colby, secretary of State in President Wilson's Cabinet, has been authorized to demand a divorce by the tribunal of Versailles, it was learned today.

The tribunal, in a decree dated December 29, admitted Colby's application and overrode the application made by Mrs. Colby before the Seine tribunal. The decision favoring Colby came after an investigation by the court of Mrs. Colby's attitude towards a reconciliation.
